Steel Peace Assured to April 30; Empire Contract Extension Waited; Move Hinted as 'Pattern for CIO'

12 UNIONS IN AREA FOREGO PORTAL SUITS

Electrical, Auto Workers' Chiefs Confer Following Surprise Steel Truce.

Empire Steel workers of Local 169, awaited word today from the central union office to extend the local contract with the company in accordance with yesterday's "Big Steel" agreement. The contract with Empire expires Mar. 1.

Labor peace in the steel industry until April 30 was assured yesterday with agreement by the CIO United Steelworkers to a 75-day extension of its 1946 contract with the United States Steel corporation.

William F. Bell, staff representative of district 24, United Steel Workers of America, said that Empire Steel has been presented with the proposal and that it "was more or less agreed upon that 'Big Steel' would set the pattern for negotiation on "wages."

* * *

Forego Portal Suits.

Bell added that he understood the extension was made because of the portal-to-portal pay suits now filed against companies throughout the country. He said that the companies "must find out their liabilities under the portal-to-portal system before talking wages."

He said that all 12 steel unions in the district, including those in Mansfield, Ashland, Shelby and Marion, have voted not to file portal-to-portal suits.

The extension of "Big Steel's" collective bargaining contract by the United Steel Workers was the basis today for speculation in labor circles that other large CIO unions plan to follow a similar pattern.

Labor leaders attached considerable significance to a secret meeting in Pittsburgh between President Walter Reuther of the Automobile Workers, President Albert J. Fitzgerald of the United Electrical Workers, and CIO President Philip Murray, who also heads the Steel Workers.

* * *

Other Extensions Loom.

While officials of the "big three" labor unions declined comment on their meeting, union chieftains said they believed Reuther and Fitzgerald were summoned into the special meeting to discuss contract extension in the automobile and electrical industry.

The Steel Workers Union extended their collective bargaining contract with the five U. S. Steel subsidiaries until April 30.

Murray said he hoped other companies whose contracts expire around Feb 15 would agree to an extension of their wage pacts until April 30.

The Steel Workers chieftain said:

"We understand some of the problems confronting management, such as their uncertainty as to liability in portal-to-portal suits."

Murray said the request for extension was made by Vice President John A. Stephens of "Big Steel" when management and labor met yesterday for formal negotiations.

CAB Gets City's Plea On Airlines

Trunkline air service for Mansfield — if any — is still months away. The Civil Aeronautics board took under advisement in Washington today the city's appeal for east-west, north-south major airline flights. No decision is expected for several months.

The board's examiners had recommended only a north-south feeder line service for the city's Class V airport, one of the finest and safest in Ohio.

The city's bid was part of the Great Lakes Area case involving 40 applications by airlines for new or additional routes.

Most of the proposed new services are in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio, but some proposed routes extend into Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

A board examiner has recommended that only 10 of the 40 applications be granted.

The board may approve these applications, change them, deny them or grant other applications that the examiner disapproved.

15 LINES WOULD SERVE MANSFIELD

Applications by major lines to serve Mansfield have been turned down by the examiners and the final decision now rests with the board.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn, returning from CAB hearings in Washington yesterday, said that at least three major airlines and from 12 to 15 feeder lines are seeking to serve Mansfield.

He said that Atty. C. H Henkel, one of five Mansfielders to attend the hearings, presented the city's case to the board Wednesday.

Each representative of some 70 municipalities was allowed 10 minutes to outline reasons why it should have major feeder line air service.

Vaughn said that Henkel stressed Mansfield's "national scope" industries as one of the major reasons for needing trunkline as well as feeder service.

He said while the city requires north-south service, too, its most vital need is for east-west trunk line service to connect with New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago.

SERVES AREA WITH 180,000 POPULATION

Henkel pointed up the fact that Mansfield serves a trading area with a population of 180,000 and is the key city within a 25 mile radius.

Besides Vaughn and Henkel, other Mansfield representatives at the hearings were City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner, John Routzon, Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager, and Alan Tappan, of the Tappan Stove company.

GET 7 TONS OF FREE POTATOES

Some children and adults in Richland county are going to be eating a lot of spuds during the next couple of weeks, whether the potatoes come mashed, fried, or escalloped.

The County Relief office announced today that the Surplus Commodity Administration of the United States government has awarded free potatoes—seven tons as a matter of fact—for distribution among county schools and institutions.

The potatoes will be divided in this way: 3,000 lbs. to the Children's Home; 1,000 lbs. to the Tuberculosis Sanitarium, and 1,000 lbs. each to Madison, Lexington, Bellville, Butler, Lucas, Springfield, Shiloh and Union schools. Trucks will pick up the potatoes Monday at Wooster.

THIEVES PROFIT

COLUMBUS (AP)—Jewelry and furs worth more than $10,000 were stolen from the home of Mrs. Michael Deangelo, 48, Friday night by four men who locked her in a bedroom closet and ransacked the house, she reported to police.

TRUCK TURNS TURTLE—This one and one-half ton truck, loaded with steel stripings, turned over following a two-truck collision yesterday at the intersection of Springmill and Trimble roads. The spectacular crash, which seriously injured William T. Brown, 18, of Richwood, demolished both trucks, knocked down a utility pole and brought down power lines which caused a grass fire on the lawn of a nearby house. George Ritzler, 28, of Bucyrus, R. D. 1, driver of the truck shown above, was not injured. Brown was the driver of the other truck (not shown above), and was knocked unconscious by the impact of the collision. Ritzler clambered out of the overturned truck and, despite the crushed cab, was unharmed. Sheriff's deputies said witnesses testified that Brown was driving on Trimble road, and collided with Ritzler's truck at the intersection. Also injured in the crash was Weldon Neith, of Tiro, passenger in Ritzler's truck. He was released after treatment at General hospital. The accident occurred about 1:30 p. m.—(News-Journal photo)

FIND FARMER'S FROZEN BODY

FREDERICKTOWN—The frozen body of James Lafever, 81-year-old retired farmer who had been missing since Monday, was found yesterday on the banks of the Kokosing river here.

Lafever had been the subject of an intensive search since he disappeared from his home here Monday. The body was found by his son-in-law, Foster Auten, of Mansfield.

Knox county coroner C. L. Harmer deferred an official verdict on the cause of death. Deputy Sheriff Paul Cochran said the body, apparently frozen, was found at the base of a 12-foot bridge abutment.

Sheriff Salathiel Bumpus said no evidence of foul play was found, but a coroner's verdict was delayed until exact cause of death could be determined.

Lafever lived with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Rodock of Fredericktown. Also surviving are a son Ralph, of Fredericktown; five other daughters, Mrs. Maxine Auten, Mrs. Ruth Young, Mrs. Mabel Wertz, and Mrs. Lucille Wimand, all of Fredericktown, and Mrs. Helen Hauger, of Monroe Mills, and a sister, Mrs. Anna Volman, of Fredericktown.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Bollinger funeral home here, with Rev. Frank Stanton of the Baptist church officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

So Your Landlord's In Rags?--Joke's On You!

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Some rents are on the way up. How many, and how far up, OPA was not prepared today to say.

The boosts will come under new liberalized "hardship" provisions intended to help poor landlords whose pocketbooks are suffering from "ceiling" pains. The new order was announced yesterday by Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, director of the office of temporary controls.

Fleming, making his announcement after a conference with President Truman, jumped the gun on OPA rent officials.

Price Chief Max McCullough said the new regulations were still in the mill. He said they wouldn't be ready until next week.

"We are simply broadening somewhat the provisions under which landlords seek rent increases on account of financial hardship," McCullough told reporters.

Aids Small Operator.

Other OPA sources indicated that the small operator—with scattered or single apartments or houses—may be the man who gets the new break.

Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice-president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards believed the change "won't make much difference."

Nelson said his group would continue to fight for an across-the-board 15-per cent increase in rent ceilings.

TALMADGE ASKS CITIZENS' AID

ATLANTA—(AP)—Herman Talmadge made a direct appeal last night to Georgia's citizenry for support—both moral and monied—in his battle for the disputed governorship as a move was made toward an investigation of reported attempts to bribe general assemblymen before their vote which named Talmadge governor.

Talmadge took to the radio on personally bought time to excoriate his opposition as those who were attempting "to create anarchy in the state and to ask for contributions to carry "this fight to the people."

Meanwhile, Speaker of the House Fred Hand said he intended to introduce next week a joint resolution calling for a probe into alleged attempts to influence with money the votes of legislators on the gubernatorial question. The assembly named Talmadge governor early on the morning of Jan 15 after a tumultuous all-night session.

Mansfield to See Display of Navy's Might

Mansfield will see a display of the navy's air power and some of the latest developments in naval equipment tomorrow and Monday as the weeklong drive for enlistments for the V-6 inactive reserve gets under way.

If the weather permits, a simulated "dive-bomb" attack will be made on the city at 2:30 p. m. Sunday when nearly 30 navy planes are scheduled to zoom over the downtown area.

The "attack" will officially open Mansfield's drive for men to serve in the reserve subject to call in an emergency.

"A Navy on Wheels," a mobile unit designed to acquaint the public with war-time developments in equipment and battle tactics, will be on display in Central park Monday and Tuesday.

Lt. Cmdr. A. F. Heiser, in charge of the recruiting drive here said the navy planes due tomorrow afternoon will include eight Avengers, eight to 12 "Hellcats," and eight "Corsairs." Planes like these played a big part in the recent World war.

The planes are scheduled to perform several formations including the word "Navy," and the letters "N" for navy, and "M" for Mansfield.

The mobile navy display is housed in two large trailer units, which includes the latest developments in technical aviation, and medical equipment many of which were closely guarded official secrets during the war. Among the highlights of the exhibit is a complete radar unit which will be shown in actual operation. Also

DRIVER BADLY INJURED WHEN TRUCK UP-ENDS

Spectacular Crash Occurs At Intersection of Trimble, Springmill Roads.

William Thomas Brown, 18, of Richwood, was in serious condition today at General hospital from injuries received yesterday in a spectacular truck collision at Springmill and Trimble roads.

Brown was "slightly improved" this morning but remained in a coma from head injuries suffered.

Brown was driving a panel truck north on Trimble road when it collided with a one and one-half ton truck driven by George Ritzler, 28, of Bucyrus R. D. 1, who was driving west on Springmill road. Ritzler was uninjured.

Ritzler's truck, loaded with steel strips, overturned and the cargo was thrown into the yard of a nearby residence when the body of the truck was torn from the chassis by the impact of the crash.

One of the trucks also struck a utility pole, which was broken off. Live power lines flayed on the ground, causing a grass fire which was quickly extinguished.

Brown's truck, which was owned by the B-T Chemical company, of Upper Sandusky, was demolished.

A passenger in Ritzler's truck, Weldon Neith, of Tiro, was injured slightly in the accident, but was released after treatment at General hospital.

Brown was taken from the wreckage unconscious, and rushed to General hospital by ambulance.

In other accidents late yesterday Mrs. Dorothy Gaubatz, 30, of 913 Belmont avenue, received knee lacerations when the lights of the car which she was driving blacked out and collided with an automobile driven by James Weaver, 21, of 268 East Sixth street, at North Adams and East Sixth street intersection.

Mrs. Ethel E. Phillips, 43, of Newark, suffered a fractured right arm in a collision in a private drive at the Ohio Brass company plant.

O'DANIEL RAPS PORTAL CLAIMS

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Portal pay suits were labelled "legalized hi-jacking" today by Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex).

In a statement he prepared for a senate judiciary subcommittee hearing, he also called them a CIO "club over industry" and said "it is imperative that congress do something" in the matter.

The subcommittee is considering various bills, one of them introduced by O'Daniel, to restrict or ban the suits seeking more than $1,000,000,000 in back portal pay for workers.

Both house and senate were in recess today.

Declared Sane, He Faces Two Murder Counts

Mansfield Worker Tells Court He 'Can't Remember' Slaying Wife, Son; 17 Others Enter Pleas.

Michael Kalis, 52-year-old steelworker charged with two counts of first degree murder, pleaded innocent by telling Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch "I don't remember anything about it" when arraigned yesterday.

Kalis, his sight almost lost from the effects of a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head, is accused of shooting his wife, Helen, and son, John, last Oct. 17 in a family quarrel at their home, 388 Springmill street.

The prisoner, who has been held in General hospital for nearly a month because of his head wound, told the court that he could not remember having a gun in his hand or even of owning a weapon.

He had no legal counsel when arraigned and since he could not remember events of Oct. 17, Judge Kalbfleisch entered a plea of not guilty for him.

Trial date has not been set.

After Kalis was indicted by the September grand jury he was sent to the Lima State hospital for mental examination. Dr. R. E. Bushong, superintendent of the hospital, reported to Judge Kalbfleisch that Kalis appeared to have been insane at the time of the crime but was sane when examined at Lima.

Charges Reduced.

The charges against Owens and Black had been reduced from second-degree murder to first degree manslaughter by the grand jury.

Owens is accused of fatally shooting Alonzo B. Lindsay, 266½ North Main street, in an alley off North Diamond street last Nov. 2. Black is charged with stabbing to death Richard Jones, Demo club bartender, in an argument at the club Christmas morning.

Cases of those who did not enter pleas immediately were continued until next Friday afternoon.

Meanwhile, Judge Kalbfleisch this morning took the pleas of 17 of 30 other persons indicted by the grand jury early this week. He deferred sentencing until next week so that the probation officer could complete required investigations into the background of each defendant.

Indicted persons, the charges against them, and their pleas are:

John Owens, first degree manslaughter, not guilty; Robert L. Allison, carrying concealed weapons, guilty; Raymond L. Bonnell, grand larceny, not guilty; Charles Tabb, attempted breaking and entering, not guilty; Edward J. Koloze, breaking and entering, not guilty.

Lyall Eugene Lewis, embezzlement, guilty; Jasper Robert Baker, shooting with intent to wound, not guilty; Joe I. Erwin, issuing check with no funds, guilty; Roy Briggs, armed robbery, not guilty, and rape, guilty; Clarence Black, first degree manslaughter, not guilty.

Robert Briggs, robbery, not guilty; Charlie Williams, assault with intent to rape, not guilty; Sherman Wade, armed robbery, guilty; Walter R. Williams, armed robbery, guilty; Joseph Thomas, jr., attempted breaking and entering, guilty; Mrs. Nan Lile King, cutting with intent to wound, not guilty; Robert Lee Andrews, rape, not guilty.

STALIN BACKS BRITISH TREATY

Alliance Between Two Nations Still Stands, Declares Russian Leader.

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Stalin says he and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin are agreed that the 20-year British-Russian treaty of alliance still stands but declares that before it is extended it must be rid of what he terms weakening reservations.

A note from Stalin to Bevin to this effect was made public by the foreign office last night, and London newspapers hailed the note today as making for better relations with Russia. The government attitude was not immediately clear.

Previously publicized were Bevin's Dec. 22 radio statement that Britain "does not tie herself to anyone," the interpretation of Pravda, Soviet Communist party newspaper, that this repudiated the 1942 alliance and the British government's denial that this was true.

Last night's foreign-office disclosures showed also that Stalin had expressed puzzlement over Bevin's statement to Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, British chief of staff, in Moscow recently and that Bevin had reassured Stalin in a note that "it is certainly not my view" that the treaty was dead.

* * *

Approved Extension.

In his note, Stalin referred to this reply and also to Bevin's proposals that the treaty, set up for 20 years, should be extended to 50 years.

"It is now clear that you and I share the same viewpoint with regard to the Anglo-Soviet treaty," the Soviet leader said. He declared that the explanations of Bevin and the British government left "no room for misunderstanding."

CONFESSION SAVES MAN FROM GALLOWS

LONDON —INS— Walter Rowland, condemned to die on the gallows for the murder of a woman was notified in his cell today that another convict in another prison confessed the crime.

The other convict was said to be Rowland's exact double.

Rowland, 38, was found guilty at Manchester of beating a woman to death on the site of a blitzed building at Deansgate October 20.

BOY ADMITS KILLING DAD TO AID MOTHER

POLAND, Mass. —(UP)— Thirteen-year old Gene Anderson, 47-pound high school freshmen, signed a statement today, Sheriff Louis A. Gendron said, that he fatally beat his father on the head with a baseball bat to protect his mother in their isolated village home.

A plea of innocent to a charge of manslaughter was entered in municipal court at Auburn for the boy who stands only three feet, 11 inches tall.

Gendron quoted the lad as saying his father, Theodore, 43, was abusing his mother, Mary, 39 last Thursday.

Materials are fascinating, aren't they? The myriad of patterns and materials can be used to fit any room, be it formal or strictly unceremonious type.

* * *

One of the stores in the city is featuring Waverly lustre-sheen material which is bonded (bonded, meaning that the manufacturer stands solidly in back of each of his statements concerning the attributes of his product). The sheen of this particular pattern called "Fascination" will not wash off, and so is perfect to slipcover a boudoir chair, make a skirt for the vanity table and drapes for the windows. Captivating Camellias enrich the palest of pink backgrounds, camellias which deepen from pink to a clear wine with green leaves, added for decorative purposes. The background color also comes in white. $1.25 yard.

* * *

Another printed material, quite different in type was found in one of the city's stores. Made of a material called roughtex, the Ardmore pattern features a genuine hand blocked print. Flowers and foliage are very distinct on the loosely woven material, with either a rose, gold or natural background. $2.95 yard.

* * *

Informal but very colorful, are the "twill stripes" which embellish a material splendid for the recreation room, sunroom or "den." The stripes are 5" wide and are white, green, deep red, chartreuse, and brown in that order. Also green, white, light blue, red and yellow.

* * *

Of the same type of informal material is the "herringbone stripe." The stripes which fall on either light blue or a rose background are in contrasting colors. $1.95 yard.

* * *

Shower curtains are one form of drapery which has lately become an important part of the decorative scheme of the bathroom. With the new Krene and Karoseal materials available at several stores in the city it's really no wonder.

The colors of the shower drapes with window curtains to match come in colors good enough to eat! (pardon the simile.)

The Karoseal curtain costs $7.50 and comes in pink, peach, blue, and white, with huge conch shells splattered "hither and yon" along with artistic sheafs of seaweed. If you prefer a plain color Krene curtain a choice to be made from practically any color in the rainbow, it will cost you $3.95.

Broadway

By

Have a Prop, Pop—The stage at the Carnival is dimned and pretty girls in Broadway-Persian costumes indicate a dance director's notion of seduction, while a tall, young man sings "Give me wine, give me woman, give me song!" to an audience that is settling down to its highballs but still rattling and talking because the young man is not a star and on the West Side audiences are only quiet for stars.

A fat man comes on. He is a short, fat man, with innocent eyes and the grin of a happy cherub. He is wearing pajamas. Clutched in one hand is a huge loaf of bread and in the other is a gallon jug of wine. He is pattering after a fluffy, blonde girl who minces happily in front of him to complete the cartoon version of Omar Khayyam's famous wish.

The jug of wine and the loaf of bread are props and the man clutching them is Chic Johnson, who, with his partner, Ole Olsen, has built some amiable unsubtleties into a zillion dollars. Ole and Chic are celebrating their 34th anniversary in show business—as partners—this week, and they are eager to admit that their success is due to the Prop.

* * *

It all began at Ike Bloom's Midnight Frolics in Chicago. Chic was playing the piano for the acts and Ole was leading an old-fashioned quartet. When their engagement was ended there, they decided to team up in vaudeville. At their first performance, a property man missed a cue and came onstage with a huge buggy-whip in his hand. They got a laugh. The laugh started Ole and Chic in their new phase of show business. They decided to become funmakers instead of funny men and to use stooges and props.

Arne Lord, an old Chicago prop man, was a student of the theatre, and he told Ole and Chic about the Chinese theatre and its use of firecrackers—not only to keep the audience awake but to make it laugh by exploding them at the wrong times. Revolvers became part of the act immediately, and Chic figures they have used enough ammumition in the last quarter of a century to supply a Balkan army.

* * *

"Mistakes are funnier than the real thing," they say. And they were right. For instance, in the regular act, a stork slides down from the ceiling—slides the whole length of the room—and drops a baby doll at the far end of the room. At the opening night dinner show, the doll slipped from the stork's grasp right into the middle of the room. A hundred patrons jumped up trying to catch it as it fell, and the laughter was so loud that Ole and Chic now are devising a way to have that happen at every performance.

* * *

Even a recital of the easily-recalled props is staggering. A stooge walks down front with his coat on. Another takes it off and snaps his fingers. A pulley with a coat hanger comes down from the ceiling. A "customer" at a ringside table talks too loudly and a stooge slaps him. His head falls off. That's two props in one—the dummy and the head.

* * *

But, presumably for fear that such noisy levity confined to the stage might prove dull, the boys carefully include an audience participation stunt in the festivities, and at this point the customers, willing or unwilling, are presented with gifts which include a 25-pound piece of ice, a small Christmas tree, white mice, a live baby pig, a rooster, toy elephants, bottles of bromo and whatever else the zanies happen to think up during periods of insomnia.

* * *

The other night a cafe owner from Miami asked Ole how many props he was using in the show. Ole answered, "Two hundred and eighty one." and then added apologetically, "but we'll try to get some others in tomorrow night's show!"

The Music Corner

By MARY HOFFMAN

If I were asked for my favorite type of concert program, I would unhesitatingly name the symphony orchestra. And if I were asked for my favorite symphony, I would willingly settle for the Cleveland Orchestra. I have driven to Cleveland through rain, snow, ice, fog, to hear the orchestra play under great conductors, and with leading concert artists as soloists.

This year the orchestra is enjoying its first season under the leadership of George Szell. Public confidence in the new conductor was manifest as soon as season tickets went on sale. In spite of advanced ticket prices and the addition of extra seats, the sale of season tickets took nearly all the available seats.

For those living at a distance who find season tickets not advisable, there is the opportunity of hearing the orchestra under the direction of Rudolph Ringwall, associate conductor, in the Sunday Twilight Concerts. The second series of six concerts begins this Sunday, Jan. 26. The others in the series will come on Feb. 2 and 23, March 16 and 23, and April 6. The programs begin at 3:30, a convenient time for those who have a long drive to and from the concert. Prices of single tickets are 75c and $1.00, with box seats at $1.50.

The program for this Sunday is an all-Wagner one, including such numbers as the Overture to "The Flying Dutchman," the Prelude and Love-Death from "Tristan and Isolde," the Magic Fire Music from "The Valkyrie," and excerpts from Act III of "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg."

"For young people wishing to attend their first symphony orchestra concert, I would suggest one of the Twilight concerts, or in the summer time one of the concerts by the Cleveland Summer Orchestra.

George Szell has selected this season two talented young musicians as apprentice conductors, a plan worth the consideration of other major symphonies. One of the young men is Theodore Bloomfield, a native of Cleveland. Still in his early twenties, he is an excellent pianist, plays the French horn exceptionally well, and has revealed a decided flair for conducting. A graduate of Oberlin Conservatory, he has studied at Juiliard Graduate School. Pierre Monteux rates him as "a young man of very great talent with seriousness of purpose and understanding of his art beyond his years."

Bedtime Stories

PETER RUBS HIS EYES

Mrs. Peter found Peter Rabbit staring up at an empty nest in the thickest tangle of brambles at the upper end of the dear Old Briar-patch. There was a funny look on Peter's face, half foolish, half unbelief.

"Fuzzy, my dear" (she used to be Miss Fuzzytail), "do you see what I see?" asked Peter.

"I see an old nest that belonged to Kitty the Catbird. What of it?" replied Mrs. Peter.

Peter turned to look at Mrs. Peter. "How long have you known of this nest?" he demanded.

"Ever since it was built," replied Mrs. Peter.

"You never mentioned it to me," said Peter reproachfully.

"Why should I? It was none of my business and none of yours," retorted Mrs. Peter.

Peter let that pass. "Now I think of it Kitty and Mrs. Kitty did spend a lot of time over here in the Old Briar-patch, but it was in the summer and I supposed they were through nesting. Did you know that they often have two nests and raise two families in a season?" said he.

Mrs. Peter nodded. "Mrs. Kitty told me so when they were building this nest. It was so late in the season I thought this must be their second nest and asked her. She said it was. They raised three babies in this one and four in the first one," she replied.

"You seem to know a lot about those Catbirds," sniffed Peter.

"If you stayed at home more perhaps you would know more about your home and neighbors," retorted Mrs. Peter.

"I wonder where Kitty the Catbird is now," said Peter, by way of changing the subject.

"Not far," said Mrs. Peter mildly.

"What do you mean by not far? Don't you know that he spends his winters where it is summer all the time? And that is a long, long way from here. Don't make foolish statements," snapped Peter.

"I said not far, and I meant not far," replied Mrs. Peter mildly.

"But he has to be a long, long way from here. If you don't know it you ought to. He couldn't live up here in the winter if he wanted to, and I guess he doesn't want to," retorted Peter.

"Why couldn't he live here?" asked Mrs. Peter.

"My dear, you are getting more foolish every minute. He has to eat, like the rest of us, and there is nothing for him to eat. You know that. He would have starved to death before this," replied Peter.

"Didn't Welcome Robin spend a winter here?" asked Mrs. Peter.

Somewhat ruefully Peter admitted that this was so. "What about Winsome Bluebird? It seems to me he spent a winter here once," said Mrs. Peter.

It was true. Winsome Bluebird had done just that. Peter remembered that winter very well. So when Mrs. Peter asked why Kitty the Catbird couldn't do the same thing he didn't know what to say.

"Mew," said a voice. "Are you folks talking about me?"

At first Peter doubted his own ears. Then he doubted his own eyes. He stared. Then he rubbed his eyes and stared again. There, just above him, with gray coat, black cap and tail and blackish wings, his bright eyes twinkling, sat Kitty the Catbird looking just as he did when Peter last saw him in the fall. Do you wonder he rubbed his eyes?

"Mew," repeated Kitty, and had Peter not been staring right at his old friend he might have thought that Black Pussy the Cat was in the dear Old Briar-patch.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, January 26.

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows probability of the holding over of recent depressed and curious states of mind and emotion, with a heightening of the devastating and distressing reactions on the private, domestic, social and romantic life. However, there is a stabilizing trend to seek solace or substantial assistance from spiritual sources or the friendly understanding of superiors or others of kindly insight and inclination.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured that a complete analysis of curious or erratic conditions, with a firm resolution to give sound consideration to current affairs, and with a sane grip on the emotions, may avert a crisis and attract the friendly cooperation of employers, superiors, elders or others of kindly disposition. Surprising turn in the affairs and fortunes should follow, with happy, profitable reactions on life and its joys.

A child born on this day may have a deep undercurrent to their emotions and impulses, attracting the kindly support of influential persons. It should have a happy and successful career.

Household Hints

For your daily chores around the house wear a full skirt which will give ease in stooping or climbing. Short skirts will keep heels from catching.

Fat is wasted by careless cooking. Once fat has been scorched, overheated, or allowed to become rancid, it is good for nothing but soap making.

Sleep repairs the brain, according to the findings of recent scientific research. During sleep more blood is pumped to the brain and can be used for the repair of brain tissue.

Barclay On Bridge

MANY PLAYERS of duplicate bridge have developed a very bad habit which they practice during the post-mortem after a deal has been played. It consists of taking some other player's hand out of the board—usually their partner's—in order to figure out something in connection with the bidding or play. In doing so, they risk mixing up the hands, thus jeopardizing the rights of others in the game. Sooner or later the laws will have to legislate more strongly against this growing evil, often perpetrated by veterans who should know better.

	♠ K 10 8 ♥ A J 2 ♦ K 10 ♣ A Q 10 8 7

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	5 NT	Pass
6 ♦	Pass	7 NT

Bidding along a number of different lines, all North-South pairs got into a No Trump slam on this deal, some in a small slam and some in a grand slam. When the scoring was completed, it developed that some of the declarers had taken only 12 tricks and others got 13.

"You can't possibly take all the tricks on it," said one of the grand slam bidders who was set when the club finesse failed.

"Certainly you can," objected one of the others, "because the club finesse works."

"Let's take a look at the board," suggested a third. "Maybe the cards got mixed up."

Examination proved that he was right, and ultimately the culprits who did the mixing were located. East had suggested that his not vulnerable partner should have made a not-vulnerable psychic double or bid after South's powerful 3-Clubs, in order to impede the strong opponents. Each then took his partner's hand out of the board to see what the other held. Then—of course—the hands got put back into the wrong pockets. When they were interchanged, the club K became a winner. Penalties punished that pair for mixing the board, but they were inadequate.

Helen Eisner tells about a little boy and a dog in THE LITTLE BOY WHO DID NOT KNOW WHY. The little boy moved into a house across the street from the little black dog. He called to him, "Here, Blackie," but the little black dog did not go to him and the little boy did not know why. He said, "Good morning, Blackie," but the dog did not bark and wag his tail. He wagged his tail for everyone else but not for the little boy. The little boy did not know why. But he found out.

Every summer William Strong went to visit his grandfather's farm. He wanted to ride the horses but he was not allowed. So, one day, dressed in his real cowboy suit, armed with a water pistol and a bean shooter, he set out for a walk. What happened then you can read in WILD WEST BILL RIDES HOME by Muriel Millen.

THE BOOK OF WIREMU by Stella Morice is a very unusual book. Wiremu, pronounced Wirrymoo, is a little Maori boy of New Zealand. The book tells about his home, his friends and his play. It has some strange Maori words in it but a list in the back tells what they all mean. You'll laugh about the pig hunt, when Wiremu and Tony climbed the tree as soon as they heard a pig.

Billy Honeycut was a little North Carolinian boy. He lived in a log cabin in the mountains and said some words a little different than we do. Inside he was just like every other little boy. Billy wanted a banjo, wanted it so badly that he gave up playtime to learn how to make baskets to sell for money to buy a banjo. Billy's father didn't understand, he used the banjo money to buy a dog—and named it Banjo. At last, things were straight again, Billy got the banjo, had a chance to play it at a dance and that was when he got the nickname BLUE RIDGE BILLY. (By Lois Lenski).

No one would really know how clever and brave Watch was because so many of his greatest deeds were done when no man could see him. Billy, Harry and Molly, his three young owners loved him and were proud of him. They knew that he was the best sheep dog on the western range. Watch knew that they would always help him, too, and that was one of the things that kept him alive when he was buried for three days under an avalanche of snow. Stolen and taken over a thousand miles from home he escaped at the first opportunity and through storm and danger WATCH, SHEPHERD DOG OF THE RANGE came home. (By Howard Hastings).

ADVENTURES IN READING by May Lamberton Becker is a very valuable and helpful book. Miss Becker is an authority in the field of children's books, her taste is high and her recommendations always safe. In this book she discusses many types of books and suggests lists of books you should read, not because they are good for you but because they are good books. Either older children who feel the need of planning their own reading program, or parents and teachers who wish to guide children will not want to miss this book.

Sunday Morning Breakfasts Are Ideal for Entertaining

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS, AP Food Editor

I've always said, and intend to keep on saying it, that Sunday breakfast is the nicest entertaining time in the week. Everybody is relaxed. Nobody has to go anywhere. A real breakfast is a wonderful meal, and all too few of us eat real breakfasts daily.

Another good point about entertaining at breakfast, in these high-priced times, is that the most elaborate meal you can dream up will be comparatively inexpensive. Furthermore, if you are your own cook, as most of us are, breakfast is an easy meal to prepare, no matter what's in it.

One of the simplest and yet most satisfying breakfast party menus you could offer goes like this: A tureen of farina with assorted fruit toppings to go on it, along with the milk or cream and sugar. You might serve bananas, cooked prunes, stewed pears, applesauce, strawberries out-of-season (if you want to be elegant—and expensive!) or any other fruit which tastes good on cereal, including dried ones such as figs or currants. The rest of the meal goes like this: Soft-cooked eggs, hot buttered date muffins and plenty of good, strong, freshly made coffee.

Date Muffins.

2	cups flour
3	teaspoons baking powder
½	teaspoon salt
½	cup coarsely chopped dates
2	tablespoons sugar
1	egg
1	cup milk
3	tablespoons shortening

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Stir in dates. Combine slightly beaten egg, sugar, milk, and melted shortening. Add dry mixture and stir only enough to mix completely. Bake in greased muffin tins in 425 degrees oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

Hot breat can be the "party" touch in any breakfast. Here's another wonderful muffin.

Bacon Muffins.

2	cups flour
3	teaspoons baking powder
¼	teaspoon salt
1	egg
1	cup milk
2	tablespoons melted shortening
8	slices crisp bacon

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Crumble bacon into the mixture and stir. Add milk, beaten egg, and melted shortening. Mix just enough to dampen flour. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full of the mixture and bake in 400 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

French toast, pancakes or waffles also make a good base for the Sunday breakfast party.

U. S. Women's Bureau Reports That Marriage Chances Are Dwindling

By JANE EADS.

WASHINGTON—The Women's Bureau reports there are 3,000,000 more women over 14 years of age in the United States than in 1940.

At the same time, the Census Bureau reports there are almost that many fewer men. This deficit, of course, considers the number of men still in the service.

From the statistics, it looks as though the marriage prospects are not so bad as one would expect. Figures show there are about 26,500,000 single men (from 14 years of age on) to 23,000,000 single women.

* * *

The present population contains about one and two-thirds million fewer single women and nearly three and three-fourths million more married women than in 1940. This, the U. S. Women's Bureau says, is due to very high marriage rates through the entire period from 1940 to 1946 and to an increase in the number of persons of marriageable age.

"In fact," the Bureau goes on, "the increase in the percent married among adult women over these five years equalled the entire increase in the 50-year period between 1890 and 1940.

"The increase since 1940 is without doubt attributable mainly to the psychological effects of war conditions and to a new sense of economic security resulting from full employment and higher wages."

However, the Women's Bureau points out that the peacetime prospects of marriage for single women in the United States is greatly affected by the reduction in the number of marriageable men through loss of life overseas and the serious disability of others.

The proportion of single men who would have been expected to marry, the Bureau says, ranges from 93 per cent of those 18 years of age to one-half of those 35 years old.

The number of eligible single men is further reduced by the fact that more than 100,000 have married still are marrying—foreign wives.

* * *

Despite what's happening in the marriage mart, and despite the prospects for the future, the Women's Bureau goes on to say that there has been a "marked stability" in the size of the woman labor force between last September and now.

All in all, unemployment figures among women workers haven't fluctuated much, hovering around a half million unemployed for most months since V-J Day, in September 1945.

In November 1946 there were about 3,000,000 fewer employed women than in the peak of the war years when more than 19,000,000 were working.

Woman Prof Teaches Law At Harvard

(AP Newsfeatures)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Mrs. Soia Mentschikoff, a New York City attorney, becomes the first woman visiting professor in the history of exclusively masculine Harvard Law school in 1947.

A native of Moscow, graduate of Hunter college and Columbia law school, she is a specialist in sales and commercial law.

She believes that the number of women lawyers will increase in the years ahead. They will be assets particularly in labor relations, she says, where, by dint of their feminine tact, they can soothe ruffled tempers in labor disputes.

For women about to undertake law careers, she advises: (1) Be certain you enjoy working out solutions to intricate problems. (2) Be sure you handle law materials (cases and statutes) easily. (3) Prepare for an "enormous" amount of time reading law.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

Drive carefully tomorrow—and remember that the hospital is already overcrowded.

An expedition is now preparing to penetrate African jungles in search of queer birds—but why go so far away from home?

Any resemblance of spring that is noticed in January weather is purely coincidental, and should not be mistaken for the real thing.

Always Need For 'More Policemen'

WITHIN recollection, there has been no annual report of a Mansfield chief of police that did not argue the need for increasing the police department personnel, and this will probably continue interminably, as it is difficult to imagine a city having enough policemen to meet all of the situations that arise, including minor and major crimes, misdemeanors, violations of traffic regulations, service at fires and other emergencies, and general law enforcement.

Increase in motor traffic, and the dangers associated therewith, has undoubtedly placed an extra burden on the police department, and the nine men assigned to traffic duty are obviously not enough to spread over the city as observers of the misconduct of reckless, incompetent or intoxicated motorists.

Recommendation by Chief Bates that the traffic department be increased in both personnel and equipment carries the associated idea that broadening of an education and enforcement program would thus be made possible, but it may be wondered if a policy of energetic and impartial enforcement—to the extent of present personnel and equipment facilities—would not serve well in "educating" habitual offenders.

As in other departments of public business, last year's cost of operating the police department made a considerable jump over that of the preceding year, and costs must be taken into account in this, as in other things having to do with expenditure of taxpayers' money.

If more money can be made available for expanding the police department without creating an unbalance in other essential municipal services, there appears to be no question as to the need—always assuming that the present personnel is being used to the limit of its efficiency and that all practicable economies are being practiced.

Lower Prices Make Wages Worth More

SOME 24,000 Mansfielders and residents of the nearby area got a pay raise yesterday of $182,000 a year. That means that these 24,000 families are going to have $500 a day more to spend for items they want and need. How did all this happen? Quite simply and quietly. It happened through the normal operation of the law and supply and demand.

The workers—in this case, cows—produced more milk. The demand—government purchases, in this instance—decreased. And the price of milk went down from 20 to 18 cents a quart.

The moral is easily drawn. Government purchases have fallen off in many lines since the close of the war. If the workers will step up their production their wages will go a great deal further in the purchase of items they need and want. By increasing production the workers can, in effect, give themselves a raise.

It has been demonstrated during the past year that the amount of money in the pay envelope is only relative. Its value depends on getting the envelope regularly and paying reasonable prices. A cut in prices is actually a raise in pay. And the way to drop prices is to produce more and better goods at less cost.

Pay in money must be fair and it must show a reasonable relationship to company gross income. But the pay envelope alone is not the answer to the worker's economic well-being.

Make Taxicab Rates Uniform In City

VARIATION in taxicab rates in Mansfield is a source of constant complaint and it would appear that this business has now reached proportions which justify action to establish uniform taxi rates, with zones and charges defined—or requirement for metered service, as is used in many cities.

While taxicabs are privately operated, under city license, they are recognizedly a part of the public transportation system and their rates should be as dependably uniform as those of the bus company.

If there is a weakness in the present licensing ordinance which prevents municipal supervision of taxi rates it is time for this to be corrected, so that this justified cause for complaint can be overcome.

Ban On Union Compulsion Sought

THERE IS one peculiar inconsistency in the labor bill introduced in the Ohio house of representatives by William R. Van Aken of Cleveland. The measure seeks to curb strikes and define union responsibility. It would establish a public policy that:

"Every person has an inalienable right to sell his labor or services to any person to whom he desires in any lawful trade or vocation."

For this policy to be carried out it would be necessary to have the open shop everywhere. Or for 100 per cent of the workers in any establishment to vote for a closed shop.

However, the bill goes on to provide that closed shops could be set up if they were sanctioned by four-fifths of the workers in a secret vote conducted by the local board of elections.

Without getting into the old closed shop-open shop argument, it is obvious that Mr. Van Aken's bill says one thing and proposes to do another. For, if every person has an inalienable right to sell his labor or services to any person to whom he desires, that right applies to the one-fifth who might oppose a closed shop as well as to the four-fifths who would want it.

Mr. Van Aken may be heading in the right direction, but his method of getting there is somewhat confusing.

In case you run across the initials, SFADIBL, and don't know what they mean, the answer is: "Society For Abolishing 'Dear' In Business Letters"—started by an annoyed Chicago man who has thus far offered no sensible substitute.

Word comes that Russians plan to domesticate the elk—and the lower case "e" should be noted in reading this aloud to members of that fraternity.

Moley Advises Budget-Makers To Base Calculations On Price Drops

By RAYMOND MOLEY

INCREASING caution among Republican congressional budgeteers may well be due to increasing news of price declines. If the ancient law of supply and demand is getting under way, the makers of mere men's laws may well take heed. Despite President Truman's optimism, business conditions do affect budget conditions, and budget-makers are put on notice.

Fur prices began shedding in August. Diamond prices dimmed in July. Stock prices since Labor day have declined a fifth, with several individual declines of a half or more. Leather goods followed in November.

Textiles, despite higher wages and raw material costs, moved lower before Christmas; and stories of higher prices by spring are meaningless, because these rumors refer to better quality for the same money. Furniture hesitated to move at current prices in December. Canned goods, meat, poultry and citrus fruits have come down.

Ford apparently saw the moment for a price coup.

And now comes silver. The perennial problem child has gone from 90 cents an ounce to 76 in six weeks.

There seems to be no undue alarm at these readjustments. But wise businessmen and statesmen will discount theoretical estimates of the exact declines to be expected in the current year. Experience teaches that the interdependence of economic affairs makes exact predictions impossible. When markets grow weak, weak credit positions grow perilous.

The safe course for congress is to anticipate that employment will decline along with prices for a time and that the national income will again lag for a while. That means less income to tax and less chance for a 20 per cent cut on individual income taxes.

The Republican decision to keep the excise taxes is wise. Taxes on luxuries may well remain where they are for the time being, until things clear a bit.

It may have been in the minds of Mr. Truman's advisers that the comfortable increase in tax returns in 1946 was due to much greater military expenditures than were anticipated a year ago. That certainly was the case. But if progress in disarmament brings down military costs this year, a reverse effect will be felt. This is another reason for caution.

The Republicans simply cannot run the risk of an unbalanced budget. There have been too many promises. And disappointment in their performance will bring renewed hope to Mr. Truman for 1948—despite his own promises.

The Republicans have the most to lose now. They came in on a wave of high prices. They must successfully ride the price declines.

Above all, this situation calls for serious, even drastic cuts in the budget. The best politics and the best management would be to leave no political item in the budget. There will be outcries by protected people, but nothing like the uproar which would come in the cold dawn of 1948 if things are still in the red. And any senators who harbor presidential ambitions at that moment will be poor material for the nomination.

Opportunity For Valuable Public Service.

WASHINGTON—In extending the senate war investigating committee for another year, Republicans have provided themselves with a handy political music box for the 1948 campaign—or think they have. But it is also an agency through which they could perform a fine public service, if they choose to do so.

There was, as usual, the wag in the press gallery who said:

"The Republican national committee has opened an office on Capitol Hill now."

Everybody who watched the battle was conscious of the political implications involved. The taut lines and the final narrow margin by which Republicans won demonstrates that.

Democrats knew that Republicans wanted to dig back into their conduct of the war and bring up some specimens to dangle before the voters in 1948 in the way of graft, corruption, scandals, waste and extravagance.

So they stood united, with a single exception, with no thought now of the divisions among them on issues.

The Republican victory for the special committee, achieved at the cost of making the first break in the Congressional Reorganization Act, is in the age-old pattern. Wars are always followed by investigations, and these investigations always turn up some smelly material, human nature being what it is and wars being what they are.

Politics also being what it is, it is easy to be philosophical, if you have watched the show here a long time. Democrats succeeded in getting some investigations even during the Republican regime of the 20's, including the nauseating Teapot Dome oil scandals and those of the justice department. Republicans didn't like those, and tried to prevent them.

Some political reputations have been enhanced by investigations, in and outside of congress. Republicans always have before them the model, which they can't forget, of the young man in New York who made his reputation as an investigator and racket-buster and became their presidential candidate once—and may again, unless, perhaps, somebody gets a bigger and fresher reputation.

Senator Tydings (D., Md.) amused himself and the senate by twitting Senator Brewster (R., Me.), chairman of the war investigating committee, about his possible political ambitions.

On the serious side, one of the most important functions of the senate is in its power of investigation. It turns a mirror on what goes on in government to the public, and often has resulted in corrective legislation long needed.

Most significant are those investigations which have dug deep into our economic system and the state of our society and showed us just where we stood at certain critical times.

Such was the senate banking committee's investigation into stock-market shenanigans and high finance; the La Follette civil liberties investigation revealing brute force tactics against labor; the Caraway lobby committee's exposure of the arrogance of the big interests seeking tariff favors; the Black committee's disclosure of the lengths to which the private power lobbyists went.

Senator Brewster's committee, along with its search for graft, also could perform such a public service by showing us how our economy came out of the war, and suggest some possible remedies.

It could tell the whole story, so the public could understand it, of how our big corporations have grown bigger and more powerful through acquisition of the bulk of surplus war plants.

This would make a good political issue. It would, of course, hit some powerful interests.

It would take courage. It is certainly needed.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Ford's Experimental Cut In Prices Suggests Way To Retard Inflation

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

IN 1914 Henry Ford startled the industrial world with a $5 minimum wage for an eight-hour day, five years after he had installed the first endless chain conveyor at his Highland Park factory. It was the start of mass production, a system that propelled America to the foremost rank as a world economic power.

Ten days ago his grandson, Henry Ford II, announced almost as revolutionary a change. In a postwar market still snarled by shortages, rising labor and production costs, Ford cut prices $15 to $50 a car.

It was the first major action of its kind in the mass production industries since the end of the war. It was intended, Ford said, as "shock treatment" to halt the insane spiral of mounting costs and rising prices. He called it an "investment in the future."

Return to "American Way."

It was, Ford declared, an attempt to return to the economic pattern which helped make America great—the principle that higher wages and a higher standard of living depend upon lower costs and lower prices through increasingly efficient large-scale production.

"The un-American spiral of mounting costs and prices has hurt everybody," said Ford. "Already millions of American families are unable to buy the things which, in normal times, make up their standard of living. In the short view, we can see inflation. In the long view, there is danger of depression."

The price slash won quick praise from the government. It came a week after the president's economic report to congress in which he asked business to cut prices wherever possible. John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, said it was "good news for the country." Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, declared it "an encouraging start toward general price reductions."

Chester Bowles, an American delegate to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, predicted that wage increases and improved standards of living would follow increased American production.

U. S. Can Double Income.

Bowles, former OPA chief, declared that every generation since the Civil war had doubled its income and predicted this could be done again.

Some economists believe the Ford announcement, if it is followed up, has come at the right psychological moment to keep the country out of a runaway boom-bust cycle. It constitutes a challenge not only to other industires but to labor, now about to press for a second round of cost-of-living increases.

The United Auto Workers, whose contract with Ford expires in May, called it a "step in the right direction," but indicated it would not have a bearing on union demands. The UAW sought 30-cents an hour increases from Chrysler, whose contract expires Jan. 26.

Challenge to Labor.

Despite the UAW's adamant stand on the Ford reduction, the recent downward trend in prices can have an overriding effect on labor's wage demands. Lower prices for wheat, cotton, oats, cattle, butter, eggs and poultry accented the receding curve of food and commodity prices under way for more than a month.

Isolated declines for industrial raw materials also developed, including silver, hides and wool.

Some government statisticians predict that the break in prices is evidence of a long-range trend and not a temporary flurry. They feel that prices have passed their peak.

At Home

Non-Partisan Policy.

Gen. George C. Marshall, the 50th secretary of state in the history of the nation, is a soldier-diplomat but he is no politician. Furthermore he doesn't intend to be one. Although his appointment automatically makes him the next chief executive if a White House vacancy should occur within the next two years, Gen. Marshall went out of his way to disavow any political ambitions and to renounce partisan politics in the formulation of American foreign policy.

The general's statement that he "never could be drafted" for the presidency or any other political office has the flat ring of finality rarely heard from presidential possibilities.

Marshall's first big job as secretary will be to settle the peace treaties for Germany and Austria. He will have to attend the March 10 meeting in Moscow with the foreign ministers of Britain, France and Russia.

* * *

Charged to World War I.

One of the hidden and incidental costs of war was revealed with the closing of government books on 28 years of housing woes left over from World War I.

The balance sheet showed a final loss of $33,911,000 on an original investment of $66,500,000.

The U. S. Housing Corp. was created in 1918 to provide quarters for war workers. The bulk of their holdings was sold in the first few years after the war, but some 450 dwellings were left. They were involved in court battles over taxes and property rights.

In 1942 the corporation was transferred to the Home Loan Bank Administration which began collecting rents and selling the properties. This resulted in a net return to the treasury of $1,322,521.

* * *

The Mine as a Furnace.

Plans are complete for the firing of an army incendiary bomb in a seam of coal in the nation's first major experiment to determine if by-product gas can be piped from coal burning in the ground.

Experts say the gas may be as rich, possibly even richer, than gas produced in the orthodox coke ovens.

If the experiment is successful, it conceivably could open a new field by utilizing millions of tons of coal in thin seams or at great depths beyond the profitable range of mining.

Peacetime Saboteur.

Property losses from fire totaled $561,487,000 in 1946, 23 percent greater than in 1945, reported Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, general chairman of the National Conference on Fire Prevention.

The loss was the most destructive in recent history. The December, 1946 loss of $58,094,000 was the heaviest "for any single month in the last 16 years."

Abroad

Let 'Doug" Do It.

Lack of initiative, a characteristic which made the Japanese people peculiarly apt dupes for a militaristic regime, is making unduly arduous and slow their reconversion to the ways of peace under Gen. Douglas MacArthur's occupation rule.

The great majority of Nipponese, schooled to unquestioned acceptance of someone else's thinking prefer to let the Americans do most of the planning and worrying.

Except in superficials, social change has been disturbingly slow. The majority of the people exhibit little interest or initiative in overthrowing the basic concepts of totalitarianism.

Japan needs a strong, cooperative, coalition government. It needs to marshal its competent leaders in all fields to combat inflation and restore national production. Above all, it needs unity.

* * *

Bikini Guinea Pigs.

Although many ships in the Bikini atom bomb target fleet still are dangerously radioactive, the navy is planning to bring some across the Pacific to the west coast for thorough examination and repair.

Rumors that some ships might be scuttled as "too hot to handle" were denied by R. Adm. William W. Parsons, chairman of the joint "Crossroads" followup board.

"These ships are very valuable radiological studies," he said. "We can't expect to get ships and atom bombs together every year and it is up to us to make maximum use of them."

Adm. Parsons added that navy yards at San Francisco, Puget Sound and Pearl Harbor needed experience in handling ships that have survived atomic attack.

Timely Editorial

Vacancy On Easy Street.

Ohio has reason to be proud of its new state liquor director. Stanley B. Cofall had barely got his office chair warmed up when a fellow dropped in and offered him a bribe of $1,200,000 to "let up" on slot machines in liquor establishments. Cofall not only refused the bribe, he did it so casually and automatically that he didn't even make a note of the man's name. Now he can't remember it.

Cofall's admirable impulse is the more so because his salary is only $6,500 a year. At that rate he'll have to be liquor director for 185 years before he earns the money he spurned last week.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Farmer's Diary: "Wildlife Hazards."

HARD TIMES overtake the wild folk of the forests during winter and trapping season. One morning when the temperature was near the zero mark, I saw a rabbit jumping madly beside a log, and heard the rattle of a three-foot length of chain. The snow was trampled where the animal had struggled, but I saw that the big steel trap had fastened upon a twig as well as the animal's leg, and so the leg remained unbroken, although the furry skin had been pared to the bone.

Quickly I stepped upon the heavy spring, and one side of the jaws dropped down, leaving the rabbit free. For an instant it stood, quivering with pain and fright, then it felt its freedom and limped rapidly along the uneven slope.

Naturally I humanized its unnecessary suffering — since the rabbit season was over, and the trap had been plainly set for some other creature—and I wondered silently if such small animals are as alert and sensitive to pain as humans are. There had been no outcry—no voice of distress or terror. Only a silent twitching of the nostrils and distortion of the muscles belied the quiet of the moment.

Occasionally after a light snowfall, on my walks, I have seen a track of raccoon, skunk or rabbit that was not normal. A stump makes a light mark that can be plainly read. Once I remember seeing a muskrat trail along Honey Creek that had both forefeet gone. I wondered, if Skipper, the spaniel, noticed any difference as he bounded forward rapidly on the scent.

There are highway tragedies that destroy wild life, too. Often in my regular ten-mile drive between village and city, I count a score or more wild animals—rabbits, woodchucks, opossums—that have been struck and killed or ground under the wheels of traffic.

And then—as last year—disease sometimes kills most of the rabbits over a wide section of country, and depopulates it temporarily. The wild population of the fields and woods that survives the rigors of winter and the hazards of hunting season is composed of its fittest and shrewdest members. These reproduce and lead forth their young into next summer's harvest fields.

One-Minute Tests.

1. What is the capital of Louisiana?
2. What city is the capital of Maryland, and what is the state's nickname?
3. What is the state motto of Michigan?

Words of Wisdom.

Knowledge will not be acquired without pains and application. It is troublesome and deep digging for pure waters; but when once you come to the spring, they rise up and meet you.—Felton.

Hints on Etiquette.

Never tuck your napkin into your clothing at a meal. One fold of it should be opened and the napkin then laid across your knees.

One Minute Test Answers.

1. Baton Rouge.
2. Annapolis; it is called the Free State.
3. Si Quaeris Peninsulam Amoenam Circumspice—meaning "If you seek a pleasant peninsula, look about you."

The least error should humble, but we should never permit even the greatest to discourage us.—Potter.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

The United States arsenal at Springfield, Mass., was attacked by the "rebels" in Shay's rebellion on January 25, 1787. The rebellion, a sequel to the Revolution, was brought on by dissatisfaction with unstable economic conditions.

ODD FACT

The diesel engine is the most efficient engine in the world. It delivers as high as 36 per cent of the power potential in its fuel, as against 30 per cent for the steam turbine, 24 per cent for the gas turbine and 8 per cent for the steam locomotive.

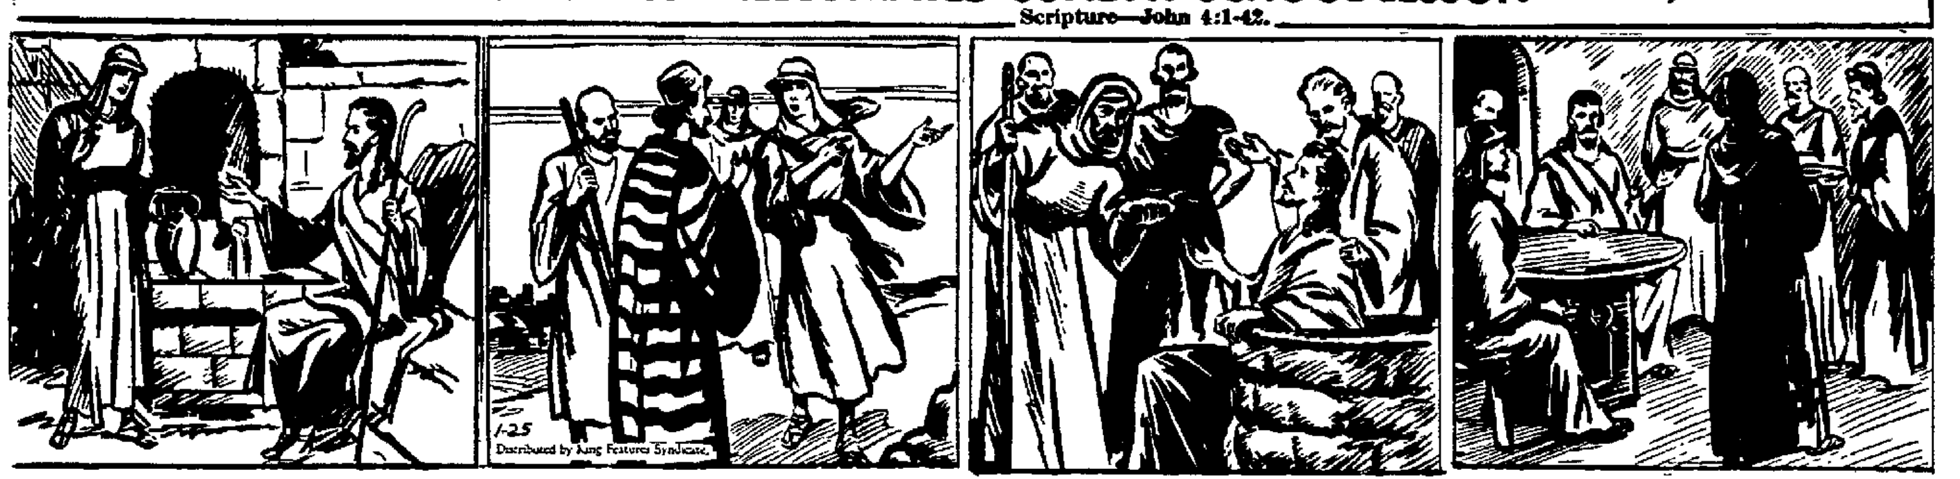
Jesus Crosses Racial Boundaries ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 4:1-42.



1-25
Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

On His way to Samaria, Jesus met a woman of that city at Jacob's well, and asked her for a drink of water. She was amazed at a Jew talking with a Samaritan, a nation they despised, and also at His knowledge of her life.

The Samaritan woman spoke of a Messiah to come, and Jesus said He was that One, and the woman hastened back to the city to tell of her meeting with Him, of His knowledge of her, and to bring her people to hear Him.

In the meantime the disciples, who had gone into the city to get food, returned and offered Jesus some food, but He said to them, "I have meat to eat that ye know not of," meaning that He had partaken of spiritual food.

The woman of Samaria brought many people back with her and of those some believed in Jesus as the Christ because of the woman's testimony, but more because of His own words.

GI Works Way Up In Outlaw Forces

MANILA —(INS)—An American G.I. who joined the Hukbalahap outlaws and became a lieutenant colonel in their forces has been captured by Philippine military police operating in Laguna.

A report from the city, in the southern part of the main island of Luzon, to the interior secretary in Manila today said that the man was identified as Charles Tatun, who escaped from the Los Banos stockade, near Manila, last October. Tatun reportedly was armed with a pistol and Garand rifle when he was captured.

Sports Gambling Cleanup Prospects Remote

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth and final article of a series dealing with the gambling situation in amateur and professional sports events.)

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—The prosepct of an immediate cleanup of the gambling racket in amateur and professional sports events seems remote.

Talk of reform comes from various quarters but so far it amounts to little more than an exchange of ideas.

In spite of current gambling—"fix" investigations by district attorneys and even the suggestion of a congressional probe, indications today are that the scandal reports will die down.

Big money—that appears to be the main stumbling block.

Colleges rake in huge sums in proceeds from sports spectacles. So do the promoters. And, of course, so do the sure-thing gamblers. The gamblers, not always satisfied with the betting percentage in their favor sometimes try to "fix" the highly publicized contests.

The only ones who figure to get nothing out of it except prestige are the college athletes.

An evil inherent in the situation is that the college boys are exposed to this harvest of gold and it is not surprising that some of them are tempted to do a little betting themselves, if not take a gambler's bribe.

Young star athletes may participate in one of the annual bowl games and get no pay—merely glory—whereas each participating college will draw down as much as 100 thousand dollars.

When the national collegiate athletic association met in New York recently they adopted a program designed to make intercollegiate athletics strictly amateur. They expressed opposition to campus recruiting of athletes, among other things.

The NCAA implemented its program by taking the position that schools which failed to live up to the proposed new standards would be liable to action.

But indications are the program may not stick. The southwest conference went home, discussed the situation, and came up with compromise plans.

Many college grads contend that if colleges want to give athletic scholarships there should be no secret about it. and that such scholarships should be advertised as just that.

Fritz Chrisler. famous football coach and director of athltics at the University of Michigan, was quoted as saying there are two trends of thought on future athletic policies in America's colleges and universities.

He said that, roughly speaking, the south is on one side, believing that the recruiting and subsidizing of athletes should be made legitimate. On the other side, he added, stand such groups as the western conference ,the Pacific Coast conference and the Ivy League schools.

What seems to be needed is unanimity of action on the part of the colleges of the nation.

Manyq sports writers contend that boxing today is pretty much of a monopoly.

A first class pugilist might be able to get any number of ring engagements at smaller clubs throughout the country but if he wanted to fight "big-time," in New York's Madison Square Garden, he'd have to fight for Promoter Mike Jacogs.

Baseball is today generally regarded as the cleanest of all sports, especially major league baseball. Open betting is not a rare sight in the big league parks. but the moguls try to keep it down. There have been reports of gambling in the minor league circuits.

Organized baseball has striven to keep the game clean ever since the famous scandal of 1919, the "throwing" of the World Series by the Chicago "Black Sox" to the Cincinnati Reds. That was the scandal that involved "Chick" Gandil, Buck Weaver, Eddie Cicotte, Lefty Williams, Oscar (Happy) Felsch, "Swede" Risberg, and others, all of whom were banished from baseball.

The gambling situation in America today is quite serious however, and calls for some kind of a clean-up. With the public betting on all kinds of sports and the gamblers in on the "kill" everywhere and millions of dollars coming in at the turnstiles, the situation is threatening to get out of hand.

Mansfield Upsets Warren, 64 to 46

TYGERS TORRID IN COLLECTING NINTH VICTORY

Tom Bloor, Nick Gagich Get 16 Points Apiece.

By FRED THARP
(N-J Sports Editor)

Mansfield's fighting Bengal basketeers refused to believe press notices again last night and clawed a highly-favored Warren Harding combine into submission, 64 to 46, on the Senior high hardwood.

The crowd of 1,600 that jammed the outmoded Tyger cage plant saw the Bengals of Coach Vern Hoffman display their best basket shooting and fast break offense of the season. And the display was quite timely as the Executives gave every impression of being ready to do a little fancy point-gathering if the Bengals ever lost steam.

The Tygers have surprised with wins over favored outfits in their last two home appearances. Last week, they upset the Springfield Wild Cats, 33 to 29. Mansfield has now won nine and dropped five.

Warren sported a nine wins, three losses record before the contest, all three losses being to powerhouse aggregations. But the Harding lads never had a chance to bring their vaunted power to the fore after the first minute.

Majors Starts Things.

Ralph "Whip" Majors, Tyger forward, sunk a one-hander shortly after the game started but Bill Henkel slipped loose under the basket to knot the score. Then a pair of fast break connections by Chuck Sisco and Tommy Bloor put the Bengals in front for the remainder of the race horse affair.

Mansfield increased its advantage to 14 to 8 at the quarter and then pieced together their most productive second quarter of the season to lead at the half, 33 to 14. The Tygers counted 19 markers in that "hot" second stanza with Nick Gagich, rugged guard, getting 10 of them. In fact, Gagich dropped in five of seven shots in the second heat.

Hoffman's proteges set a new seasonal point record in the game. Their best previous mark had been 50. scored in a losing effort to Columbus Bexley earlier in the campaign. They surpassed the 50 mark with only 1:47 gone in the last chukker.

A couple of individual scoring records also went by the boards last night as Gagich and Bloor each hit for 16 counters. Bloor's best previous effort had been 14 against Bellevue while Gagich had accounted for 15 in the first Ashland contest. Ollie Cline counted 19 against Bexley for the seasonal high.

Imburgia Gets 20.

However, the Bengal sharpshooters had to bow to Larry Imburgia in the point market. The clever Harding center dumped home nine field goals and two free throws for a total of 20 points. Imburgia has counted 195 points in 13 encounters.

The second quarter scoring exhibition was one of the hottest things ever to transpire in the Tyger lair. Mansfield had closed the first quarter with five straight points but Gagich (3) and Cline (1) rammed home four shots without a miss in the first minute and 14 seconds.

In all, the Bengals hit the basket the first seven times they shot in that second period excluding a gratis connection by Cline. Mansfield's first-half completion percentage was 55.6.

For all of its race-horse tendencies, the game never got out from under the watchful eyes of the officials. Only 21 personals were called, nine in the last quarter when the visitors strove vainly to get back into the contest. Mansfield made 12 of 15 free throws and Warren six of 10.

Hoffman was able to use his full squad for the third time this season with lanky Jerry Robfogel making three points in the last heat.

The result evened up the series between the two clubs at one victory apiece. Warren won the inaugural last year, 59 to 41.

Lexington and Ontario Knotted For 2nd Place

LEXINGTON—Lexington's Minutemen erased the stigma of an early season defeat by topping the Bellville Blue Jays here last night, 43 to 26. Coach John Rees' Minutemen are now tied with Ontario for second place in the Richland county league race.

This was the Minutemen's seventh loop victory while suffering three defeats. Coach Orville Kibler's Blue Jays dropped to third place with a seven and four record.

While riding on the crest of a four game winning streak, the Minutemen suffered their first taste of defeat at Bellville in their first clash, 30 to 28. This loss knocked Lexington out of a first place tie with Butler.

Rollin Ford garnered 17 points to boost his seasonal scoring record to 150, an average of 15.0. Ford scored eight field goals and one foul shot. Don Walker tallied seven points to lead Bellville.

Richard Dill scored 11 points to lead the Lexington reserves to a 27 to 23 victory over Bellville.

Plymouth, 28-27

LUCAS — Plymouth defeated Lucas 28 to 27 here last night when Cornelius Vanderbilt, Plymouth center, made good a foul shot in the final two seconds of play.

Don Stake, Lucas forward, sank a basket which would have won the game for Lucas but teammate Jim Fanello fouled the Plymouth center, and Stake's two points was nullified. The Lucas reserves dropped Plymouth 29 to 13 in the first contest.

Bengal Sophs Beat Simpson

Although John Simpson's Don Cline led the scorers with 13 points, the Mansfield sophomores defeated the junior high cagers, 38 to 30, last night at Senior high school.

Simpson took a 7 to 4 lead in the first quarter but Coach Fred Staub's Tyger Cubs rallied to knot the count at the half, 15 to 15. The sophs led 28 to 24 as the final period opened. Ken Carver and Paul Ferguson accounted for 22 of the Tygers' points

DEARMAN'S 5 WINS CITY PIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Dearman's Transportation won the team championship of the 1947 Men's City bowling tournament at the Colony alleys this week.

The last fifteen teams bowled last night with only three finishing in the money.

Dearman's cracked out the top score of 3,129 pins last Tuesday night to go ahead of Urschel Insurance quintet which had notched 3,001 pins, Urschel's finished in 14th position.

H. Biles rolled games of 191-190-218-(54)—653 to take the high individual honors for the Transportation team. Other keglers on the team were, E. Campbell, A. Zacharsuk, H. Freese, and E. Baehr.

Dearman's compiled scores of 935, 862, and 1,019 along with a handicap of 315 to take the first prize of $60.

BAND BUILDERS SECOND

The Mansfield Tire Band Builders quintet finished second in the prize money, which totaled $450. The Tiremen bowled 3,116. Their purse was $50.

Moose Treasurers made the top jump in last night's pinblasting. The Treasurers hit the maples for 3,075 to finish in third plale. The Moose score bettered Mansfield's Rug and Linoleum team score by a single point. The Rugmen had 3,074 for fourth.

Moose Veterans stepped into sixth place in the final team events. The Vets compiled 3,038, to gain a six point margin over the Mansfield Tire Curing Room.

In all 31 teams split the tournament team-event prize money. The other teams to enter the cash list last night were Moose Lefthanders, who rolled a 3,012 for 13th place, Mooseheart, who grabbed 16th position with 2,982, and the Moose Herders who won $10 by finishing in the 23 slot with a 2,957.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 1-25

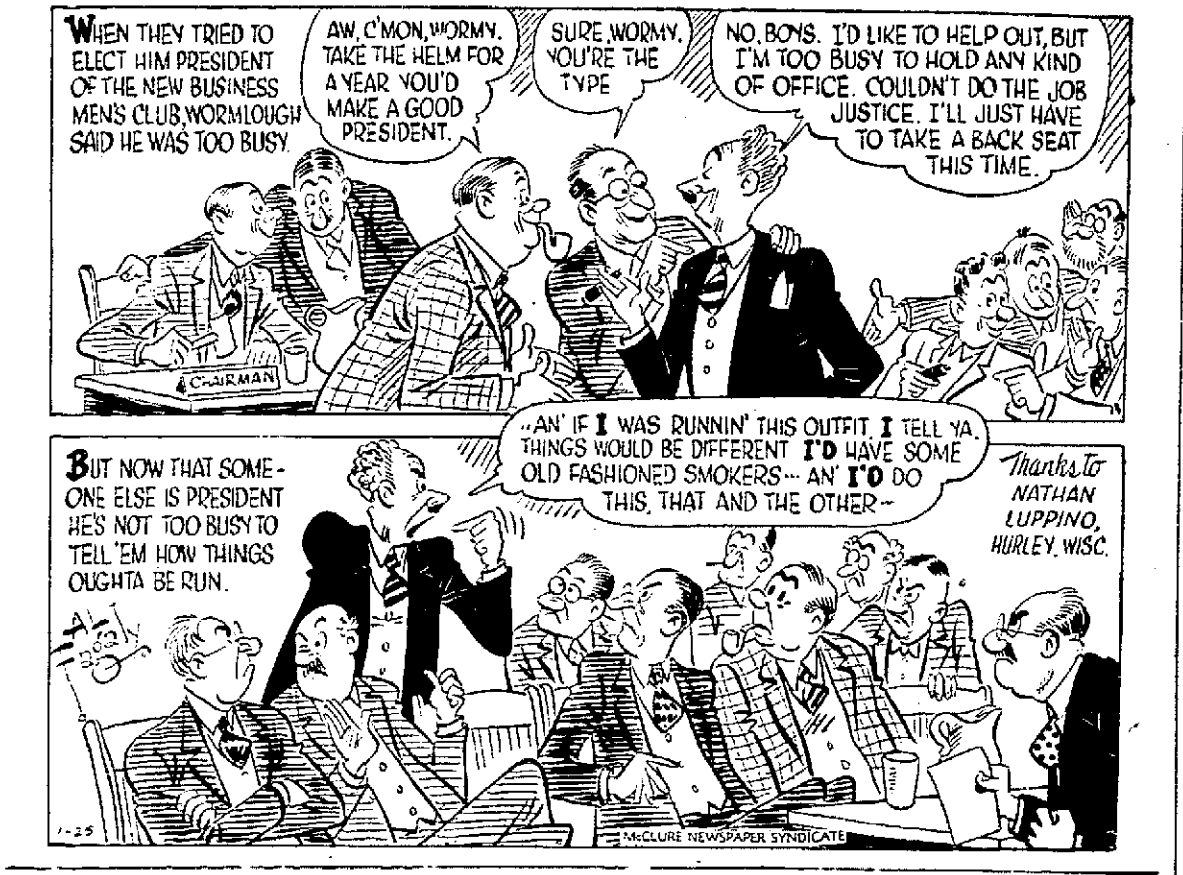
THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By Fagaly and Shorten



WHEN THEY TRIED TO ELECT HIM PRESIDENT OF THE NEW BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB, WORMLOUGH SAID HE WAS TOO BUSY.
AW, C'MON, WORMY. TAKE THE HELM FOR A YEAR. YOU'D MAKE A GOOD PRESIDENT.
SURE, WORMY, YOU'RE THE TYPE
NO, BOYS. I'D LIKE TO HELP OUT, BUT I'M TOO BUSY TO HOLD ANY KIND OF OFFICE. COULDN'T DO THE JOB JUSTICE. I'LL JUST HAVE TO TAKE A BACK SEAT THIS TIME.
CHAIRMAN
BUT NOW THAT SOMEONE ELSE IS PRESIDENT HE'S NOT TOO BUSY TO TELL 'EM HOW THINGS OUGHTA BE RUN.
..AN' IF I WAS RUNNIN' THIS OUTFIT, I TELL YA, THINGS WOULD BE DIFFERENT. I'D HAVE SOME OLD FASHIONED SMOKERS... AN' I'D DO THIS, THAT AND THE OTHER~

CITY VS. FARM BATTLE RAGES

Conflicting Bills On State Aid Before Ohio Legislature.

By TED S. ALEXANDER

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — The biennial battle between rural and big-city solons over state aid to local governments was shaping up today in the 97th Ohio General Assembly.

Nine bills — five increasing the allocation to political subdivisions from sales tax revenues —were before the house and senate for committee hearings. Most of the bills are conflicting and controversial.

Although stormy committee meetings probably will be held on the measures next week, the principal work on finance will be delayed until Gov. Thomas J. Herbert has recommended a tax program in February.

Cities would be permitted to collect public utility excise taxes and admission taxes under two bills before the solons. Allocations from sales tax receipts were proposed from a low of $30,000,000 to a high of $36,000,000 annually.

* * *

Basis of Allocation.

Three of the sales tax bills proposed that the money be sent to Ohio's 88 counties on the basis of 50 per cent on tax duplicates and 50 per cent on population

In 1945, the legislature ended a session-long fight over the distribution ratio by allocating 75 per cent on the basis of the county property tax duplicates and the remainder on the basis of population.

Rep. Anna O'Neil (D-Akron) authored two bills to increase the allocation to local governments to $31,000,000. The legislature appropriated $16,000,000 to subdivisions in 1945 and increase the allocation by $5,000,000 in 1946.

Mrs. O'Neil's bill proposed that the $31,000,000 be distributed on the same basis as the 1945 grant —$12,000,000 on tax duplicates and the remainder on the basis of proportionate population.

* * *

Method Big Issue.

Largest issue in the sales tax fight is the method of distribution rather than the amount of the grant. The problem is complicated by a "sleeper clause" slipped through the legislature in a special session last year when the local governments allocation was increased $5,000,000.

The "sleeper clause" gave cities a larger share of the aid by taking away the discretionary power of the county budget commission and requiring distribution of the fund within the counties on the basis of tax duplicates.

The partial appropriations bill passed in the first week of the current regular session restored to the county commission the power to distribute the funds in the counties on the basis of need —but a "hangover" reportedly remains from the "sleeper clause."

Two other bills to aid local governments would continue the right of municipalities to hold special elections to vote on additional tax levy's and allow cities to levy taxes for improvements on abutting lands.

Rites Set for Sparta Couple Stricken Friday

MT. GILEAD—Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Culver, of Sparta, who died within 15 minutes of each other early Friday, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Marengo Methodist church. Burial will be in Marengo cemetery.

MASS CELEBRATED FOR MRS. BERNO

Final rites were held for Mrs. Constance Walter Berno yesterday morning at St. Peter's Catholic church. Her cousin, Rev. Bernard Moore of Portsmouth, Va., celebrated the solemn requiem Mass and Msgr. R. C. Goebel gave the eulogy. Mrs. Berno, widow of William Berno, died early Tuesday at her home, 388 Park avenue west

In his sermon, Msgr. Goebel paid glowing tribute to Mrs. Berno's work in the community and the church Assisting at the Mass were Rev. Virgil Reidlinger and Rev. Richard Norman, assistant pastors at the church. Nephews of Mrs Berno acted as pallbearers.

Shelby Suffers First NO Loss

SHELBY — Shelby's Whippets suffered their first Northern Ohio league defeat in a double overtime to the Bellevue Redmen, 47 to 45, before 1,500 fans here last night. This was Shelby's first setback in four loop contests.

With the game tied 42 to 42 at the end of the regulation game each team scored three points in the first overtime. In the sudden death second extra period, Shelby's Bill Thompson fouled Redmen forward Jim Ball who connected for the two foul shots that won the game.

Ball and Milt Bruckner each tallied 13 points for the winners. Bellevue reserves defeated Shelby's reserves, 23 to 18.

Red Amity Necessary

THE FORMATION of American foreign policy in the critical areas of the world—that is to say in Germany, in the Middle East, in China and in Argentina—depends in the first instance upon our relations with the Soviet Union.

The dominating importance of Soviet-American relations is due in part to the absolute increase of Russian and American power but only in part. The weakness of Great Britain, the devastation of Europe, the disunity of China, the disappearance of Germany and of Japan have magnified the relative importance of Soviet Union and of the United States in world affairs.

While this is the condition of things a dangerous contest of power and influence exists. This contest could degenerate into a dreadful prolonged and indecisive war.

The problem of our diplomacy is how we should [illegible] part in this contest during the difficult period while Europe, China, and the British Empire are relatively weak and, therefore, exposed to or dependent upon Russian and American influence and power.

During this period—which is the postwar period—our responsibilities are great and our task is difficult. For our object must be to check the expansion of Russian imperialism and of Communism without ourselves becoming corrupted by an imperialism of our own or entangled in a conflict for the domination of the world.

* * *

THERE IS NO use pretending that this is an easy thing to do. It is [illegible] from the angry debates between the "appeasers" and the "Crusaders"—between those who think there is no real conflict and those who think it is an irreconcilable conflict. Yet, as a matter of fact, there is no reason as yet for accepting the idea that we must choose one or the other horn of this dilemma. There is good ground for believing that if American power and influence are used wisely, they can be effective.

In the contest with the Soviet Union the corrupt and the reactionary are not an asset. They are a liability. They can contribute nothing to our power in dealing with the Soviet government. They cannot enlist the support of their own people. They diminish our influence. They make us appear to be counting at the very evil forces that we say we oppose.

This in generalized form is—as I read his report on China—the conclusion to which Gen. Marshall came after prolonged and direct experience with the actual problem in one of the great unsettled areas of the world. The conclusion does not apply to China alone.

Raps Slacker Dollars

MERRY FAHRNEY (Madcap Merry, to the front pages) displayed a show of gall that would have pleased the Nazis she so much admired. . . . Miss Fahrney asked the U. S. Gov't to release her money in Brazil. . . . Why was it sent there in the first place? . . . American dollars were needed to fight the war. Why should our country protect the slacker dollars which sought safety abroad? Those slacker dollars should be used to pay interest on war bonds. . . . Better still, while it is still good, green money, it should be spent for the benefit of our men who suffered wounds to keep American money that good. . . . The U. S. Federal Reserve, I think, should identify all deserter money with a special stamp. . . . A photo of Benedict Arnold—printed in yellow.

The resignation of Nenni (Italian foreign secretary) was the result, in large part, of a New York dinner party. This is the inside story. . . . The Italian and the Yugoslav delegates to the United Nations dined together. . . . During the toasts some Yugoslav delegates spoke none too highly of Marshal Tito. . . . The Italian delegates mentioned it in the diplomatic pouch to Rome. . . . Nenni communicated to Tito that his ambassadors were not particularly loyal. . . . The Yugoslavs were warned to Belgrade to "toe the mark." . . . But it leaked out in Rome that Italy's foreign secretary had divulged the contents of the diplomatic pouch to a foreign government, and Nenni had to step down.

* * *

Sir Stafford Cripps (that great liberal) with more gall than sense attacked the American movie industry. Cripps said British films were entitled to share the huge box office receipts collected in America. Simultaneously 12 U. S. films were barred in Singapore. . . . Cripps is self-contradictory. Lloyds of London [illegible] filed a balance sheet [illegible] gets more business from America than it does from Great Britain and the British Empire put together. . . . Does Mr. Cripps mean we should stop that? . . .

Number 10 Downing Street ought to wage one war at a time. . . . A diplomatic war on Russia and a trade war on the U. S. (simultaneously) is too much for even a lion to handle.

Orchids to the American Press Corps of Rome which quietly and effectively defied British and American army officers who exceeded their authority. British intelligence insisted that American intelligence "force" Claire Neikind (U. S. newspaperwoman, who rode a Hell ship to Palestine) to disclose her contacts or force her to go home. . . . The American Press Corps told both intelligence services that if Great Britain again interfered (with an American reporter's passport), they would blast it across the headlines of this nation. . . . Thanks to the U. S. reporters for proving that it's much easier to kill a 1941 phony Four Freedoms than scorn a 1776 Bill of Rights.

The most stinging criticism Ambassador Messersmith has received cannot be as devastating as this praise from Peron: "An exceptional Ambassador has come to Buenos Aires—an Ambassador who, in addition to intelligence, has a receptive heart and the spirit of a gentleman. These qualities adorn Mr. Messersmith."

That medal should be worn like mud.

The State Department now alleges that it is [illegible] between him and ban on the Argentine issue because it lacks facts about Peron's errand-running for the Nazis. . . . YOUTH HELD IN BURGLARIES OF CITY HOMES

Police Nab Boy, 16, After He Rings Door Bell.

With the arrest of a 16-year-old youth through the help of a Manchester road resident and a taxi driver, police today believed they had solved a number of house burglaries in the city in recent weeks.

[illegible] Watson, 672 Manchester road, saw the boy ringing his front door bell last night after arriving in a taxi driven by [illegible].

When Watson asked the boy [illegible] Watson asked the taxi driver to keep an eye on the boy until he called police.

Police Lt. C. W. Kyler and Officer Leland Sorgen apprehended the youth on Arlington avenue near Marion avenue.

Police said the youth confessed entering the C. C. Burkhart residence at 947 Marion avenue last night and stealing $17. [illegible] Burkhart said he didn't know that his house had been entered.

Officers also reported the youth confessed entering a Shepherd road residence Jan. 15 and they believed that further questioning and investigation may solve some of the numerous other house burglaries, they said.

Thieves stole $1,000 at Watson's residence about a year ago, officers said.

J. GRIEBLING DIES AT 87

John W. Griebling, 87, of Lexington, died yesterday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Paul V. Weir, 550 Edgewood road, after an extended illness.

Mr. Griebling was born in Washington township March [illegible], 1859 and had lived in Richland county all his life. For about 20 years he owned and operated the old flour mill in Troy township two miles north of Lexington. He was a township trustee for many years. Mr. Griebling was a member of the Lexington Congregational church.

Surviving besides the daughter, Mrs. Weir, are a son, Dr. Charles Griebling of Galion, one step-son, R. P. Scott of Los Angeles, one brother, F. A. Griebling of Mansfield, two granddaughters and two grandsons. His wife, Jennie Carns Griebling preceded him in death.

Services will be conducted Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the Snyder funeral home in Lexington by Rev. Matthew G. Madden, pastor of the First Congregational church of Mansfield. Burial will be in the Lexington cemetery.

Sales Idea Rockets Mansfielder Nancy Sasserto National Fame

By MARGUERITE MILLER

A few years ago a comely art student from Raleigh, N. C., set up a portrait studio in Bloomingdale's department store in New York, because she "thought people should be able to buy good paintings without having to pay a fortune for them."

Today, that same art student is Nancy Sasser of "Buy-Lines" column fame, expert saleswoman, co-partner in a flourishing "editorialized advertising" business, and in private life Mrs. Edward F. Eldridge of 484 Overlook road, Mansfield.

Eldridge is manager of the appliance department of the M. [illegible] company. The couple came to Mansfield in December.

* * *

HER COLUMN on hints to the housewife reaches 14,000,000 American homes, approximately 1 per cent of the reading public. Her brother and co-partner, Phil Sasser, launched a men's column a year and a half ago during his terminal leave from the 20th Air Force.

"It's quite a story as to how I started in this business," the tall, slim beauty laughed. "I started out to be an artist—that's how I got into this."

Following graduation from the University of Wisconsin and the National Art Academy, Miss Sasser got an idea which later established her as one of the nation's leading advertising writers and executives.

* * *

"MOST OF the leading New York stores sold paintings too expensive for the ordinary person's purse. So I asked: 'Why not sell the idea of a portrait studio backed by the store, where people could come for pictures and still not have to pay a fortune for them?'"

The idea sold. Miss Sasser was on the road to the top.

"Then, I also did a local shopping column for the Raleigh Times in North Carolina. I decided if people would pay double rates for the space they received in my column and didn't complain, it was a good test for a larger column of the same type."

NANCY SASSER . . . She's Mansfielder now

Five years ago last September, Miss Sasser launched her shopping column, which survived despite the Pearl Harbor attack four months later.

"Phil and I were almost certain Pearl Harbor would kill the column, but somehow it pulled through. It wasn't easy though," she continued. "Phil signed up with the 20th Air Force and was made a combat intelligence officer. For two years he flew missions with the B-29 crews over Japan, Sumatra and the southern Pacific."

* * *

GOING TO NEW YORK, Miss Sasser sold her column to 13 sponsors and 32 newspapers. Next came the question of where to set up the office, and more important, the question of where she could set down her typewriter.

"I heard of a penthouse at 271 Madison avenue and went to see it. It was much too expensive, but by establishing both office and living quarters there, I made out."

Today, the penthouse is still the living quarters but the "Buy-Lines" office has been moved to the ninth floor at 271 Madison. In addition to this central office, "Buy-Lines" representatives can be contacted in Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

From the 13 sponsors and 32 newspapers, the column has grown to 150 sponsors and 73 of the nation's leading newspapers. It advertises everything from autos to raisins and kitchen cleansers.

"You know, it's so nice to come back to Mansfield, away from the phones and confusion," Miss Sasser continued. "Ned and I like it here and we hope to stay.

"There's one thing I'd like to do soon," she added brightly. "That's riding. I used to ride all the time in North Carolina and it's my favorite recreation."

CITY TO SEE NAVY DISPLAY

included is an instrument panel from a navy fighter plane, new cold weather flying apparel, and a life raft used in air-sea rescue operations.

Of particular interest will be the navy's deep sea diving gear to be demonstrated several times throughout the day by a qualified diver and the new wire recorder used by the navy. The recorder will be available to any persons wishing to have their voices recorded, and playbacks of such recordings may be heard. The exhibit also includes a medical section with apparatus for emergency administration of blood plasma during battle.

Construction of navy ships is illustrated by a seven-foot model of a cruiser of the U. S. S. Cleveland class. Motion picture equipment for showing battle-action is also part of the exhibit. Models of aerial bombs, rockets, anti-aircraft guns and other weapons will show how the navy licked the threat of the Jap Kamikaze planes.

The object of this mobile unit is to approach veterans, navy, marines, and army, not contacted by the regular recruiting stations, giving information, answering questions, and offering opportunity for immediate reenlistment in class V-6 inactive reserve, Cmdr. Heiser said. There are numerous advantages in this program for the veterans. They cannot be called back on active duty unless a national emergency is declared. There is no interference with civilian life. Veterans may keep their highest wartime rating. Service in the V-6 reserve counts toward longevity at the rate of five per cent every three years. No physical examination is necessary. The upper age limit for veterans of World War II is 64.

30 Artists, Patrons Map Plan For Fine Arts Guild In City

Plans for organizing a Mansfield Fine Arts Guild with a campaign for membership were made last night by 30 local artists and art patrons who met in the John Bernat studios.

George Biddle, jr., elected chairman of the Guild, said today the purpose of the group will be to link together artists, art critics and all persons interested in the fine arts with the purpose of presenting "bigger, better and more frequent" art shows to the general public in the Mansfield area.

Other officers chosen were, Thomas Zaugg, vice chairman; Miss Marilyn Schneider, secretary, and Mrs. Bruce McGinty, treasurer.

Plans for the annual May art show are underway.

Associate memberships in the Fine Arts Guild are open to all persons interested in art. Members have been given the goal of two additional members each by February. Yearly dues are $5 and will cover dual membership for both husband and wife, Biddle explained.

The Guild will meet the last Friday of each month.

OFFICIAL DENIES CRUELTY CHARGE

BUCYRUS—Charges of mail censorship at the Crawford county home and cruel and inhuman treatment of residents there was denied today in a statement signed by H. L. Dinkle, home superintendent, and county commissioners.

The allegations were made earlier this week by relatives and friends of residents of the home at a conference before commissioners and Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon.

Concerning the specific charges against a person identified as "Mr. Jones," Dinkle said Jones, a resident, had been relieved of his duties and had been assigned to other work.

The signed statement alleged that "75 per cent of the inmates of the home are mentally ill, which requires disciplinary measures."

Dinkle said that outgoing mail, handed to him unsealed, was stamped and sealed by him for mailing, and that only in one case, where a resident's hands were crippled, had mail been opened.

JUVENILE COURT HEARS 3 CASES

Frank Brokaw, 47, Mansfield, R. D. 2, was fined $25 and costs in juvenile court yesterday when he was found guilty of contributing to the neglect of his 15-year-old son. The fine was suspended on his promise to keep the youth in school.

A [illegible]-year-old Shelby boy, charged with delinquency by failing to report to school was given a suspended sentence in the Boys' Industrial school. He was ordered by the court to attend school the remainder of the year and to be at his home each evening by 9 p. m.

Junior F. Spayde, 18, of Crestline lost his right to drive for six months when he was found guilty of speeding. He received permission of the court to drive only on business.

Up and Down The Street

ALWAYS SOMETHING—

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn, literally up to his neck in work that accumulated while he was in Washington to sit in on the airlines hearings, found another task when he opened his morning mail today. The mail brought a request from James G. Truman of Berkeley, Calif., for a list of nine and 18-hole golf courses in Ohio that are open to the public. The Californian said he planned to use the list in a book he is writing on sporting areas of the United States, but the mayor said he was too busy to answer that one today.

NO EXCUSE NOW—

Mansfielders won't have any excuse now for littering the streets with paper and other refuse. New collection boxes, marked "Waste Paper," had been set up today at advantageous points downtown by John Gottfried who was authorized by city council to establish the collection service. The boxes are painted brown with white lettering. They contain advertising which helps pay for the service.

NEEDED: AN ARTIST—

The Mansfield Public library is looking for an artist, who will donate his or her services to the completion of the "treasure chest" which will carry 30 books to the children of foreign land. Miss Eva Leonard, children's librarian in charge of collecting the books for the chest, said today the wooden box has been completed by the Senior high vocational classes, but the chest needs a coat of paint and some decorations. The chest must be decorated before it is sent to the national office in New York for distribution.

LEAVING SOONER—

Patients at General hospital are getting out sooner now, Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, hospital superintendent, told members of the Mansfield Hospital association last night. He backed up his claim with some interesting statistics. Thirty years ago, he said, when he began his hospital career, patients were staying in hospitals an average of 24 or 25 days. Today, patients are able to leave in about eight days. He also pointed out that 30 years ago, although beds in the ward cost only $1.50 per day, a patient's bill would be almost as much for a 25 day stay as today when ward accommodations cost $5 per day.

W. P. Mosey Dies at 74

William Penfield Mosey, 74, retired foreman of the Empire Steel corporation, died at his home, 99 West Second street, today at 8:45 a. m., following a week's illness.

Born in Bucyrus Jan. 6, 1872, Mr. Mosey had been a Mansfield resident most of his life. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church and Venus Lodge, No. 152, F. and A. M.

Surviving are two sons, William W. and Allen H., and two daughters, Mrs. Marjorie King and Miss Estelle Mosey, all of Mansfield; and six grandchildren.

Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home where services will be conducted Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., by Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be the Mansfield cemetery.

Atom Power Plant Nearing Reality

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—A General Electric engineer said today that the first atomic power plant will be generating electricity at Oak Ridge, Tenn., by the end of next year.

C. P. Cabell, engaged in atomic energy projects at the Hanford engineer works, said preliminary work on such a plant is being conducted by G-E and the Monsanto Chemical company at Oak Ridge. Their investigations are being made under government contract. Cabell told the San Francisco engineering council last night that atomic power plants actually can be more economical than conventional types.

$12,000 UNIT WILL BE READY IN TWO WEEKS

Loughridge Re-Elected As Head of Board; Biggest Year Reported.

A new $12,000 X-ray unit is expected to be installed at General hospital sometime within the next two weeks, Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent, told members of the Mansfield Hospital association at their annual meeting last night.

The unit has already arrived and hospital officials are waiting for Cleveland technicians to install it in the X-ray room. It will replace the old unit, which will be moved into the hospital addition expected to be built soon, Dr. Fonkalsrud told members.

E. W. Loughridge was re-elected president of the hospital board; Mrs. Ephraim Brown was re-elected secretary; and H. E. Arlin was elected vice president. C. W. Fox was retained as treasurer.

The hospital board will have two new members, Austin C. Rhoads and the new city service-safety director who will succeed William W. Enlow, resigned. Others who will serve on the board are Mrs. Ephraim Brown, Glen Speelman, C. W. Fox, Mrs. George Draffan, Mrs. Lois Anson, Atty. C. H. Huston, Matthew Masayer, E. W. Loughridge, H. W. Arlin, L. A. Ott, Fred Burgener, E. B. Swigart and M. Dale Ward.

New Advisory Member.

Richard Stander, vice president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce is the only new member on the advisory group. Others include: Mrs. Rex Averill, Fred Hout, Mrs. J. C. Gorman, A. C. Harnd, Oliver Henkel, Stanleigh Vinson, Scott Coffin, R. B. Gardner, Mrs. Robert Scattergood, Sidney Smith, Harry Dailey, W. J. Spreng, W. A. Springer, and G. W. Stephens.

Last year was the biggest year in the history of the hospital, Dr. Fonkalsrud said in his annual report.

A total of 7,929 patients were treated at the hospital last year, including 1,637 accident cases.

Records showed 1,493 deliveries, but Dr. Fonkalsrud explained that approximately 1,500 babies were born at the hospital in 1946 because twins are listed on the records as one delivery.

Record Set.

Although December, because of the holidays, is usually one of the lightest months of the year, last December's average of 195 patients per day set a record, and was 30 more than the average during December, 1945.

Receipts during the year amounted to $1,162,577 and expenses were $1,082,298. Charge off accounts during the year amounted to $5,583.

In a move to increase the number of nurses, Dr. Fonkalsrud said that plans are under way for a canvass of this area to reach high school pupils who may want to join the nursing staff. There are only 18 senior nurses, 19 juniors, and 11 pre-clinical nurses, making a total of only 48 nurses, at the hospital now in a year which has been the heaviest in the institution's history.

"We should have at least 80 nurses," Dr. Fonkalsrud said.

MAN ROBS WHEN BEGGING FAILS

Police today were investigating a report of a $13 robbery that followed an attempt at panhandling on North Mulberry street at 8:45 p. m. last night.

J. J. Huston, 89 West Third street, told officers that he was approached by a man who asked him for some money while he was walking along the east side of North Mulberry street.

He said he refused the handout and started to walk on when the man grabbed him from behind, dragged him into the alley between 216 and 218 North Mulberry street, knocked him down and robbed him of his billfold containing the cash.

Engineers Plan 'Georgia' Meeting

The "Georgia" meeting of the North Central chapter of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers will be at 7 p. m. Thursday at the American Legion home, 126 Park Avenue West.

It's called the "Georgia" meeting, the announcement stated, because two sets of officers request the presence of all members—the present officers and the future officers to be elected at this meeting. There will be movies and dinner, [illegible] the best for $1.50.

Catlett Better; Leaves Hospital

Atty. John L. Catlett, Richland county representative to the Ohio general assembly, was able to leave General hospital yesterday and return to his home at 1023 Woodland road.

Catlett suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Dec. 30. His family said he is improving rapidly and should be able to return to his work in about two weeks.

Materials are fascinating aren't they? The myriad of patterns and materials can be used to fit any room, be it formal or strictly unceremonious type.

* * *

One of the stores in the city is featuring Waverly lustre-sheen material which is bonded (bonded, meaning that the manufacturer stands solidly in back of each of his statements concerning the attributes of his product). The sheen of this particular pattern called "Fascination" will not wash off, and so is perfect to slipcover a boudoir chair, make a skirt for the vanity table and drapes for the windows. Captivating Camellias enrich the palest of pink backgrounds, camellias which deepen from pink to a clear wine with green leaves, added for decorative purposes The background color also comes in white. $1 25 yard.

* * *

Another printed material, quite different in type was found in one of the city's stores. Made of a material called roughtex, the Ardmore pattern features a genuine hand blocked print. Flowers and foliage are very distinct on the loosely woven material, with either a rose, gold or natural background. $2 95 yard.

* * *

Informal but very colorful, are the "twill stripes" which embellish a material splendid for the recreation room, sunroom or "den." The stripes are 5" wide and are white, green, deep red, chartreuse, and brown in that order Also green white, light blue, red and yellow.

* * *

Of the same type of informal material is the "herringbone stripe" The stripes which fall on either light blue or a rose background are in contrasting colors. $1.95 yard.

Shower curtains are one form of drapery which has lately become an important part of the decorative scheme of the bathroom With the new Krene and Karoseal materials available at several stores in the city it's really no wonder.

The colors of the shower drapes with window curtains to match come in colors good enough to eat! (pardon the simile.)

The Karoseal curtain costs $7 50 and comes in pink peach, blue, and white, with huge conch shells splattered "hither and yon" along with artistic sheafs of seaweed. If you prefer a plain color Krene curtain a choice to be made from practically any color in the rainbow, it will cost you $3 95

Barclay On Bridge

MANY PLAYERS of duplicate bridge have developed a very bad habit which they practice during the post-mortem after a deal has been played It consists of taking some other player's hand out of the board—usually their partner's—in order to figure out something in connection with the bidding or play In doing so, they risk mixing up the hands, thus jeopardizing the rights of others in the game. Sooner or later the laws will have to legislate more strongly against this growing evil, often perpetrated by veterans who should know better

Bidding along a number of different lines, all North-South pairs got into a No Trump slam on this deal some in a small slam and some in a grand slam When the scoring was completed, it developed that some of the declarers had taken only 12 tricks and others got 13

"You can't possibly take all the tricks on it," said one of the grand slam bidders who was set when the club finesse failed

"Certainly you can," objected one of the others, "because the club finesse works"

"Let's take a look at the board," suggested a third "Maybe the cards got mixed up"

Examination proved that he was right, and ultimately the culprits who did the mixing were located. East had suggested that his not vulnerable partner should have made a not-vulnerable psychic double or bid after South's powerful 3-Clubs, in order to impede the strong opponents Each then took his partner's hand out of the board to see what the other held. Then—of course—the hands got put back into the wrong pockets. When they were interchanged, the club K became a winner Penalties punished that pair for mixing the board, but they were inadequate.

Sunday Morning Breakfasts Are Ideal for Entertaining

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS, AP Food Editor

I've always said, and intend to keep on saying it, that Sunday breakfast is the nicest entertaining time in the week. Everybody is relaxed. Nobody has to go anywhere A real breakfast is a wonderful meal, and all too few of us eat real breakfasts daily

Another good point about entertaining at breakfast, in these high-priced times, is that the most elaborate menu you can dream up will be comparatively inexpensive. Furthermore, if you are your own cook, as most of us are, breakfast is an easy meal to prepare, no matter what's in it.

One of the simplest and yet most satisfying breakfast party menus you could offer goes like this A tureen of farina with assorted fruit toppings to go on it, along with the milk or cream and sugar You might serve bananas, cooked prunes, stewed pears, applesauce, strawberries out-of-season (if you want to be elegant—and expensive!) or any other fruit which tastes good on cereal, including dried ones such as figs or currants The rest of the meal goes like this. Soft-cooked eggs, hot buttered date muffins and plenty of good, strong, freshly made coffee

Date Muffins.

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup coarsely chopped dates
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons shortening

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Stir in dates Combine slightly beaten egg, sugar, milk, and melted shortening Add dry mixture and stir only enough to mix completely. Bake in greased muffin tins in 425 degrees oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

Hot breat can be the "party" touch in any breakfast. Here's another wonderful muffin.

Bacon Muffins.

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening
8 slices crisp bacon

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Crumble bacon into the mixture and stir. Add milk, beaten egg, and melted shortening. Mix just enough to dampen flour. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full of the mixture and bake in 400 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

French toast, pancakes or waffles also make a good base for the Sunday breakfast party.

Broadway

By Dorothy

Have a Prop, Pop—The stage at the Carnival is dimmed and pretty girls in Broadway-Persian costumes indicate a dance director's notion of seduction, while a tall, young man sings "Give me wine, give me woman, give me song!" to an audience that is settling down to its highballs but still rattling and talking because the young man is not a star and on the West Side audiences are only quiet for stars.

A fat man comes on. He is a short, fat man, with innocent eyes and the grin of a happy cherub. He is wearing pajamas Clutched in one hand is a huge loaf of bread and in the other is a gallon jug of wine He is pattering after a fluffy, blonde girl who minces happily in front of him to complete the cartoon version of Omar Khayyam's famous wish

The jug of wine and the loaf of bread are props and the man clutching them is Chic Johnson, who, with his partner, Ole Olsen, has built some amiable unsubtleties into a zillion dollars. Ole and Chic are celebrating their 34th anniversary in show business—as partners—this week, and they are eager to admit that their success is due to the Prop

* * *

It all began at Ike Bloom's Midnight Frolics in Chicago. Chic was playing the piano for the acts and Ole was leading an old-fashioned quartet. When their engagement was ended there, they decided to team up in vaudeville. At their first performance, a property man missed a cue and came onstage with a huge buggy-whip in his hand. They got a laugh. The laugh started Ole and Chic in their new phase of show business. They decided to become funmakers instead of funny men and to use stooges and props.

Arne Lord, an old Chicago prop man, was a student of the theatre, and he told Ole and Chic about the Chinese theatre and its use of firecrackers—not only to keep the audience awake but to make it laugh by exploding them at the wrong times Revolvers became part of the act immediately, and Chic figures they have used enough ammunition in the last quarter of a century to supply a Balkan army.

* * *

"Mistakes are funnier than the real thing," they say. And they were right. For instance, in the regular act, a stork slides down from the ceiling—slides the whole length of the room—and drops a baby doll at the far end of the room At the opening night dinner show, the doll slipped from the stork's grasp right into the middle of the room A hundred patrons jumped up trying to catch it as it fell, and the laughter was so loud that Ole and Chic now are devising a way to have that happen at every performance.

* * *

Even a recital of the easily-recalled props is staggering. A stooge walks down front with his coat on. Another takes it off and snaps his fingers. A pulley with a coat hanger comes down from the ceiling. A "customer" at a ringside table talks too loudly and a stooge slaps him. His head falls off. That's two props in one—the dummy and the head.

* * *

But, presumably for fear that such noisy levity confined to the stage might prove dull, the boys carefully include an audience participation stunt in the festivities, and at this point the customers, willing or unwilling, are presented with gifts which include a 25-pound piece of ice, a small Christmas tree white mice, a live baby pig, a rooster, toy elephants, bottles of bromo and whatever else the zanies happen to think up during periods of insomnia.

* * *

The other night a cafe owner from Miami asked Ole how many props he was using in the show. Ole answered, "Two hundred and eighty one," and then added apologetically, "but we'll try to get some others in tomorrow night's show!"

The Music Corner

By MARY HOFFMAN

If I were asked for my favorite type of concert program, I would unhesitatingly name the symphony orchestra And if I were asked for my favorite symphony, I would willingly settle for the Cleveland Orchestra I have driven to Cleveland through rain, snow, ice, fog, to hear the orchestra play under great conductors, and with leading concert artists as soloists.

This year the orchestra is enjoying its first season under the leadership of George Szell. Public confidence in the new conductor was manifest as soon as season tickets went on sale. In spite of advanced ticket prices and the addition of extra seats the sale of season tickets took nearly all the available seats

For those living at a distance who find season tickets not advisable, there is the opportunity of hearing the orchestra under the direction of Rudolph Ringwall, associate conductor, in the Sunday Twilight Concerts The second series of six concerts begins this Sunday, Jan 26 The others in the series will come on Feb. 2 and 23, March 16 and 23, and April 6. The programs begin at 3:30, a convenient time for those who have a long drive to and from the concert Prices of single tickets are 75c and $1.00, with box seats at $1.50.

The program for this Sunday is an all-Wagner one, including such numbers as the Overture to "The Flying Dutchman," the Prelude and Love-Death from "Tristan and Isolde," the Magic Fire Music from "The Valkyrie," and excerpts from Act III of "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg."

"For young people wishing to attend their first symphony orchestra concert, I would suggest one of the Twilight concerts, or in the summer time one of the concerts by the Cleveland Summer Orchestra

George Szell has selected this season two talented young musicians as apprentice conductors, a plan worth the consideration of other major symphonies One of the young men is Theodore Bloomfield, a native of Cleveland Still in his early twenties, he is an excellent pianist, plays the French horn exceptionally well, and has revealed a decided flair for conducting A graduate of Oberlin Conservatory, he has studied at Juilliard Graduate School. Pierre Monteux rates him as "a young man of very great talent with seriousness of purpose and understanding of his art beyond his years"

Bedtime Stories

PETER RUBS HIS EYES

Mrs. Peter found Peter Rabbit staring up at an empty nest in the thickest tangle of brambles at the upper end of the dear Old Briar-patch. There was a funny look on Peter's face, half foolish, half unbelief.

"Fuzzy, my dear" (she used to be Miss Fuzzytail), "do you see what I see?" asked Peter.

"I see an old nest that belonged to Kitty the Catbird What of it?" replied Mrs Peter.

Peter turned to look at Mrs Peter. "How long have you known of this nest?" he demanded.

"Ever since it was built," replied Mrs. Peter.

"You never mentioned it to me," said Peter reproachfully.

"Why should I? It was none of my business and none of yours," retorted Mrs Peter

Peter let that pass "Now I think of it Kitty and Mrs Kitty did spend a lot of time over here in the Old Briar-patch, but it was in the summer and I supposed they were through nesting. Did you know that they often have two nests and raise two families in a season?" said he

Mrs. Peter nodded "Mrs Kitty told me so when they were building this nest. It was so late in the season I thought this must be their second nest and asked her She said it was. They raised three babies in this one and four in the first one," she replied

"You seem to know a lot about those Catbirds" sniffed Peter

"If you stayed at home more perhaps you would know more about your home and neighbors" retorted Mrs. Peter

"I wonder where Kitty the Catbird is now," said Peter, by way of changing the subject.

"Not far," said Mrs Peter mildly.

"What do you mean by not far? Don't you know that he spends his winters where it is summer all the time? And that is a long, long way from here Don't make foolish statements,' snapped Peter

"I said not far and I meant not far" replied Mrs. Peter mildly

"But he has to be a long, long way from here. If you don't know it you ought to He couldn't live up here in the winter if he wanted to, and I guess he doesn't want to," retorted Peter

"Why couldn't he live here?" asked Mrs Peter

"My dear, you are getting more foolish every minute He has to eat, like the rest of us and there is nothing for him to eat You know that He would have starved to death before this" replied Peter

"Didn't Welcome Robin spend a winter here?" asked Mrs. Peter.

Somewhat ruefully Peter admitted that this was so "What about Winsome Bluebird? It seems to me he spent a winter here once," said Mrs. Peter.

It was true, Winsome Bluebird had done just that Peter remembered that winter very well So when Mrs Peter asked why Kitty the Catbird couldn't do the same thing he didn't know what to say.

"Mew," said a voice "Are you folks talking about me?"

At first Peter doubted his own ears. Then he doubted his own eyes He stared Then he rubbed his eyes and stared again There, just above him, with gray coat, black cap and tail and blackish wings, his bright eyes twinkling, sat Kitty the Catbird looking just as he did when Peter last saw him in the fall Do you wonder he rubbed his eyes?

"Mew," repeated Kitty, and had Peter not been staring right at his old friend he might have thought that Black Pussy the Cat was in the dear Old Briar-patch.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, January 26.

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows probability of the holding over of recent depressed and curious states of mind and emotion, with a heightening of the devastating and distressing reactions on the private, domestic, social and romantic life However, there is a stabilizing trend to seek solace or substantial assistance from spiritual sources or the friendly understanding of superiors or others of kindly insight and inclination

So one day, dressed in his real cowboy suit, armed with a water pistol and a bean shooter, he set out for a walk What happened then you can read in WILD WEST BILL RIDES HOME by Muriel Millen.

THE BOOK OF WIREMU by Stella Morice is a very unusual book. Wiremu, pronounced Wirrymoo, is a little Maori boy of New Zealand. The book tells about his home, his friends and his play. It has some strange Maori words in it but a list in the back tells what they all mean. You'll laugh about the pig hunt, when Wiremu and Tony climbed the tree as soon as they heard a pig

Billy Honeycut was a little North Carolinian boy. He lived in a log cabin in the mountains and said some words a little different than we do. Inside he was just like every other little boy. Billy wanted a banjo, wanted it so badly that he gave up playtime to learn how to make baskets to sell for money to buy a banjo Billy's father didn't understand, he used the banjo money to buy a dog—and named it Banjo At last, things were straight again, Billy got the banjo, had a chance to play it at a dance and that was when he got the nickname BLUE RIDGE BILLY. (By Lois Lenski).

No one would really know how clever and brave Watch was because so many of his greatest deeds were done when no man could see him. Billy, Harry and Molly, his three young owners loved him and were proud of him. They knew that he was the best sheep dog on the western range. Watch knew that they would always help him, too, and that was one of the things that kept him alive when he was buried for three days under an avalanche of snow Stolen and taken over a thousand miles from home he escaped at the first opportunity and through storm and danger WATCH, SHEPHERD DOG OF THE RANGE came home. (By Howard Hastings).

ADVENTURES IN READING by May Lamberton Becker is a very valuable and helpful book Miss Becker is an authority in the field of children's books, her taste is high and her recommendations always safe In this book she discusses many types of books and suggests lists of books you should read, not because they are good for you but because they are good books Either older children who feel the need of planning their own reading program, or parents and teachers who wish to guide children will not want to miss this book.

U. S. Women's Bureau Reports That Marriage Chances Are Dwindling

By JANE EADS.

WASHINGTON—The Women's Bureau reports there are 3,000,000 more women over 14 years of age in the United States than in 1910.

At the same time, the Census Bureau reports there are almost that many fewer men. This deficit, of course, considers the number of men still in the service.

From the statistics, it looks as though the marriage prospects are not so bad as one would expect. Figures show there are about 26,500,000 single men (from 14 years of age on) to 23,000,000 single women.

* * *

The present population contains about one and two-thirds million fewer single women and nearly three and three-fourths million more married women than in 1910. This, the U S. Women's Bureau says, is due to very high marriage rates through the entire period from 1940 to 1946 and to an increase in the number of persons of marriageable age.

"In fact," the Bureau goes on, "the increase in the percent married among adult women over these five years equalled the entire increase in the 50-year period between 1890 and 1940.

"The increase since 1940 is without doubt attributable mainly to the psychological effects of war conditions and to a new sense of economic security resulting from full employment and higher wages"

However, the Women's Bureau points out that the peacetime prospects of marriage for single women in the United States is greatly affected by the reduction in the number of marriageable men through loss of life overseas and the serious disability of others

The proportion of single men who would have been expected to marry, the Bureau says, ranges from 93 per cent of those 18 years of age to one-half of those 35 years old

The number of eligible single men is further reduced by the fact that more than 100,000 have married still are marrying foreign wives

* * *

Despite what's happening in the marriage mart and despite the prospects for the future the Women's Bureau goes on to say that there has been a "marked stability" in the size of the women labor force between last September and now

All in all unemployment figures among women workers haven't fluctuated much hovering around a half million unemployed for most months since V-J Day in September 1945

In November 1946 there were about 3,000,000 fewer employed women than in the peak of the war years when more than 19,000,000 were working

Woman Prof Teaches Law At Harvard

(AP Newsfeatures)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass — Mrs. Soia Mentschikoff, a New York City attorney, becomes the first woman visiting professor in the history of exclusively masculine Harvard Law school in 1947

A native of Moscow, graduate of Hunter college and Columbia law school, she is a specialist in sales and commercial law

She believes that the number of women lawyers will increase in the years ahead. They will be assets particularly in labor relations, she says, where, by dint of their feminine tact, they can soothe ruffled tempers in labor disputes

For women about to undertake law careers, she advises (1) Be certain you enjoy working out solutions to intricate problems, (2) Be sure you handle law materials (cases and statutes) easily. (3) Prepare for an "enormous" amount of time reading law.

Red Amity Necessary

THE FORMATION of American foreign policy in the critical areas of the world—that is to say in Germany, in the Middle East, in China and in Argentina—depends in the first instance upon our relations with the Soviet Union.

The dominating importance of Soviet-American relations is due in part to the absolute increase of Russian and American power but only in part. The weakness of Great Britain, the devastation of Europe, the disunity of China, the disappearance of Germany and of Japan have magnified the relative importance of Soviet Union and of the United States in world affairs.

While this is the condition of things, a dangerous contest of power and influence exists. This contest could degenerate into a dreadful, prolonged and indecisive war.

The problem of our diplomacy is how we should conduct our part in this contest during the difficult period while Europe, China, and the British Empire are relatively weak and, therefore, exposed to or dependent upon Russian and American influence and power.

During this period—which is the postwar period—our responsibilities are great and our task is difficult. For our object must be to check the expansion of Russian imperialism and of Communism without ourselves becoming corrupted by an imperialism of our own, or entangled in a conflict for the domination of the world.

* * *

THERE IS NO use pretending that this is an easy thing to do. It is obvious from the angry debates between the "appeasers" and the "Crusaders"—between those who think there is no real conflict and those who think it is an irreconcilable conflict. Yet, as a matter of fact, there is no reason as yet for accepting the idea that we must choose one or the other horn of this dilemma. There is good ground for believing that if American power and influence are used wisely, they can be effective.

In the contest with the Soviet Union, the corrupt and the reactionary are not an asset. They are a liability. They can contribute nothing to our power in dealing with the Soviet government. They cannot enlist the support of their own people. They diminish our influence. They make us apologists conniving at the very evil forces that we say we oppose.

This, in generalized form, is—as I read his report on China—the conclusion to which Gen. Marshall came after prolonged and direct experience with the actual problem in one of the great unsettled areas of the world. The conclusion does not apply to China alone.

Raps Slacker Dollars

MERRY FAHRNEY (Madcap Merry, to the front pages) displayed a show of gall that would have pleased the Nazis she so much admired. . . . Miss Fahrney asked the U. S. Gov't to release her money in Brazil . . . Why was it sent there in the first place? . . . American dollars were needed to fight the war. Why should our country protect the slacker dollars which sought safety abroad? Those slacker dollars should be used to pay interest on war bonds. . . . Better still, while it is still good, green money, it should be spent for the benefit of our men who suffered wounds to keep American money that good. . . . The U. S. Federal Reserve, I think, should identify all deserter money with a special stamp. . . . A photo of Benedict Arnold—printed in yellow.

The resignation of Nenni (Italian foreign secretary) was the result, in large part, of a New York dinner party. This is the inside story. . . . The Italian and the Yugoslav delegates to the United Nations dined together . . . During the toasts some Yugoslav delegates spoke none too highly of Marshal Tito. . . . The Italian delegates mentioned it in the diplomatic pouch to Rome. . . . Nenni communicated to Tito that his ambassadors were not particularly loyal. . . . The Yugoslavs were warned to Belgrade to "toe the mark." . . . But it leaked out (in Rome) that Italy's foreign secretary had divulged the contents of the diplomatic pouch to a foreign government, and Nenni had to step down.

Sir Stafford Cripps (that great liberal) with more gall than sense attacked the American movie industry. Cripps said British films were entitled to share the huge box office receipts collected in America. Simultaneously, 12 U. S. films were barred in Singapore . . . Cripps is self-contradictory. Lloyds of London (which hasn't filed a balance sheet in 300 years) gets more business from America than it does from Great Britain and the British Empire put together . . . Does Mr. Cripps mean we should stop that? . . . Number 10 Downing Street ought to wage one war at a time. . . . A diplomatic war on Russia and a trade war on the U. S. (simultaneously) is too much for even a lion to handle.

Orchids to the American Press Corps of Rome which quietly and effectively defied British and American army officers who exceeded their authority. British intelligence insisted that American intelligence "force" Claire Neikind (U. S. newspaperwoman, who rode a Hell ship to Palestine) to disclose her contacts or force her to go home. . . . The American Press Corps told both intelligence services that if Great Britain again interfered (with an American reporter's passport), they would blast it across the headlines of this nation. . . . Thanks to the U. S. reporters for proving that it's much easier to kill a 1941 phony Four Freedoms than scorn a 1776 Bill of Rights.

The most stinging criticism Ambassador Messersmith has received cannot be as devastating as this praise from Peron: "An exceptional Ambassador has come to Buenos Aires, an Ambassador who, in addition to intelligence, has a receptive heart and the spirit of a gentleman. These qualities adorn Mr. Messersmith."

That medal should be worn like mud.

YOUTH HELD IN BURGLARIES OF CITY HOMES

Police Nab Boy, 16, After He Rings Door Bell.

With the arrest of a 16-year-old youth through the help of a Manchester road resident and a taxi driver, police today believed they had solved a number of house burglaries in the city in recent weeks.

Gordon Watson, 672 Manchester road, saw the boy ringing his front door bell last night after arriving home in a taxi driven by Paul Livingston.

When Watson asked the boy what he wanted the youth said he was looking for Shepard road. Watson asked the taxi driver to "keep an eye" on the boy until he called police.

Police Lt. C. W. Kyler and Officer Leland Sorgen apprehended the youth on Arlington avenue near Marion avenue.

Police said the youth confessed entering the C. C. Burkhart residence of 947 Maumee avenue last night and stealing $17. Contacted by police later, Burkhart said he didn't know that his house had been entered.

Officers also reported the youth confessed entering a Shepherd road residence Jan. 18, and they believed that further questioning and investigation may solve some of the numerous other house burglaries, they said.

Thieves stole $1,000 at Watson's residence about a year ago, officers said.

J. GRIEBLING DIES AT 87

John W. Griebling, 87, of Lexington, died yesterday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Paul V. Weir, 550 Edgewood road, after an extended illness.

Mr. Griebling was born in Washington township March 10, 1859 and had lived in Richland county all his life. For about 20 years he owned and operated the old flour mill in Troy township two miles north of Lexington. He was a township trustee for many years. Mr. Griebling was a member of the Lexington Congregational church.

Surviving besides the daughter, Mrs. Weir, are a son, Dr. Charles Griebling of Galion; one step-son, R. P. Scott of Los Angeles; one brother, F. A. Griebling, of Mansfield, two granddaughters and two grandsons. His wife, Jennie Cairns Griebling preceded him in death.

Services will be conducted Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the Snyder funeral home in Lexington by Rev. Matthew G. Madden, pastor of the First Congregational church of Mansfield. Burial will be in the Lexington cemetery.

CAR HAS SERIES OF 3 MISHAPS

A car which was reported stolen last night from a Mansfield parking lot then was involved in a hit-skip accident and was later found abandoned in the center of the intersection at Park avenue west and Mulberry was under police investigation today.

The car was reported stolen from the Schroer parking lot on East Temple court at 8:30 p. m. by Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Gramly, Mt. Gilead R. D. 2.

Officers said the car later was reported to have collided with an Ace taxicab at 8:30 p. m. at South Mulberry street and Glenwood heights. Walter Probst, 50, of 179 Boughton avenue, was driver of the cab.

Police soon afterward found it abandoned in the center of the intersection of Park avenue west and Mulberry and towed it to the city garage.

Only minor damage was done to the two cars, police said.

Aid for Aged Checks Delayed

Checks for Richland county's 1,2[illegible] old age pensioners will be several days late this month, due to unavoidable delay in Columbus, state headquarters informed Mrs. Mae Fox [illegible] of the Richland county office of the division of Aid for the Aged today.

It is expected that the checks will be [illegible] next Wednesday, headquarters said. The checks are usually [illegible] Mansfield and Richland [illegible] the 24th or 25th [illegible].

Sales Idea Rockets Mansfielder Nancy Sasserto National Fame

By MARGUERITE MILLER

NANCY SASSER . . . She's Mansfielder now

A few years ago, a comely art student from Raleigh, N. C., set up a portrait studio in Bloomingdale's department store in New York, because she "thought people should be able to buy good paintings without having to pay a fortune for them."

Today, that same art student is Nancy Sasser of "Buy-Lines" column fame, expert saleswoman, co-partner in a flourishing "editorialized advertising" business, and in private life Mrs. Edward F. Eldridge of 434 Overlook road, Mansfield.

Eldridge is manager of the appliance department of the M. O'Neil company. The couple came to Mansfield in December.

* * *

HER COLUMN on hints to the housewife reaches 14,000,000 American homes, approximately 10 per cent of the reading public. Her brother and co-partner, Phil Sasser, launched a men's column a year and a half ago during his terminal leave from the 20th Air Force.

"It's quite a story as to how I started in this business," the tall, slim beauty laughed. "I started out to be an artist—that's how I got into this."

Following graduation from the University of Wisconsin and the National Art Academy, Miss Sasser got an idea which later established her as one of the nation's leading advertising writers and executives.

* * *

"MOST OF the leading New York stores sold paintings too expensive for the ordinary person's purse. So I asked: 'Why not sell the idea of a portrait studio backed by the store, where people could come for pictures and still not have to pay a fortune for them?'"

The idea sold. Miss Sasser was on the road to the top.

"Then, I also did a local shopping column for the Raleigh Times in North Carolina. I decided if people would pay double rates for the space they received in my column and didn't complain, it was a good test for a larger column of the same type."

Five years ago last September, Miss Sasser launched her shopping column, which survived despite the Pearl Harbor attack four months later.

"Phil and I were almost certain Pearl Harbor would kill the column, but somehow it pulled through. It wasn't easy though," she continued. "Phil signed up with the 20th Air Force and was made a combat intelligence officer. For two years he flew missions with the B-29 crews over Japan, Sumatra and the southern Pacific."

* * *

GOING TO NEW YORK Miss Sasser sold her column to 13 sponsors and 32 newspapers. Next came the question of where to set up the office, and more important, the question of where she would set down her typewriter.

"I heard of a penthouse at 271 Madison avenue and went to see it. It was much too expensive, but by establishing both office and living quarters there, I made out."

Today, the penthouse is still the living quarters but the "Buy-Lines" office has been moved to the ninth floor at 271 Madison. In addition to this central office, "Buy-Lines" representatives can be contacted in Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

From the 13 sponsors and 32 newspapers, the column has grown to 150 sponsors and 73 of the nation's leading newspapers. It advertises everything from autos to raisins and kitchen cleansers.

"You know, it's so nice to come back to Mansfield, away from the phones and confusion," Miss Sasser continued. "Ned and I like it here and we hope to stay.

"There's one thing I'd like to do soon," she added brightly. "That's riding. I used to ride all the time in North Carolina and it's my favorite recreation."

CITY TO SEE NAVY DISPLAY

included is an instrument panel from a navy fighter plane, new cold weather flying apparel, and a life raft used in air-sea rescue operations.

Of particular interest will be the navy's deep sea diving gear to be demonstrated several times throughout the day by a qualified diver and the new wire recorder used by the navy. The recorder will be available to any persons wishing to have their voices recorded, and playbacks of such recordings may be heard. The exhibit also includes a medical section with apparatus for emergency administration of blood plasma during battle.

Construction of navy ships is illustrated by a seven-foot model of a cruiser of the U. S. S. Cleveland class. Motion picture equipment for showing battle-action is also part of the exhibit. Models of aerial bombs, rockets, anti-aircraft guns, and other weapons will show how the navy licked the threat of the Jap Kamikaze planes.

The object of this mobile unit is to approach veterans, navy, marines, and army, not contacted by the regular recruiting stations, giving information, answering questions, and offering opportunity for immediate reenlistment in class V-6 inactive reserve, Cmdr. Heiser said. There are numerous advantages in this program for the veterans. They cannot be called back on active duty unless a national emergency is declared. There is no interference with civilian life. Veterans may keep their highest wartime rating. Service in the V-6 reserve counts toward longevity at the rate of five per cent every three years. No physical examination is necessary. The upper age limit for veterans of World War II is 64.

OSU Enrolls 10 More From County

Ten more students from Richland County have enrolled at Ohio State university for the second semester which started Jan. 3.

They are Raymond W. Boyer, George W. Bradley, Helen J. Chokreff, Harry M. Devers, William F. Gondert, Arthur C. Kaler, and Glen D. Schraf, all of Mansfield; Roger F. Myers and George W. Young of Bellville, and Floyd R. Lloyd of Shelby.

Jap's Conscience Works at Times

TOKYO—(INS)—Japanese conscience has its rare moments. Today during the Tokyo war crimes trial of twenty-six former Japanese leaders, Prosecutor Max Sc[illegible] of New York asked defendant Tamotsu Kimura to hit him as he hit prisoners of war.

But Kimura demurred, saying: "I cannot under the present circumstances lay a hand on Allied personnel because it would be against my conscience."

30 Artists, Patrons Map Plan For FineArts Guild In City

Plans for organizing a Mansfield Fine Arts Guild with a campaign for membership were made last night by 30 local artists and art patrons who met in the John Bernat studios.

George Biddle, jr., elected chairman of the Guild, said today the purpose of the group will be to link together artists, art critics and all persons interested in the fine arts with the purpose of presenting "bigger, better and more frequent" art shows to the general public in the Mansfield area.

Other officers chosen were, Thomas Zaugg, vice chairman; Miss Marilyn Schneider, secretary, and Mrs. Bruce McGinty, treasurer.

Plans for the annual May art show are underway.

Associate memberships in the Fine Arts Guild are open to all persons interested in art. Members have been given the goal of two additional members each by February. Yearly dues are $5 and will cover dual membership for both husband and wife, Biddle explained.

The Guild will meet the last Friday of each month.

OFFICIAL DENIES CRUELTY CHARGE

BUCYRUS—Charges of mail censorship at the Crawford county home and cruel and inhuman treatment of residents there was denied today in a statement signed by H. L. Dinkle, home superintendent, and county commissioners.

The allegations were made earlier this week by relatives and friends of residents of the home at a conference before commissioners and Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon.

Concerning the specific charges against a person identified as "Mr. Jones," Dinkle said Jones, a resident, had been relieved of his duties and had been assigned to other work.

The signed statement alleged that "75 per cent of the inmates of the home are mentally ill, which requires disciplinary measures."

Dinkle said that outgoing mail, handed to him unsealed, was stamped and sealed by him for mailing, and that only in one case, where a resident's hands were crippled, had mail been opened.

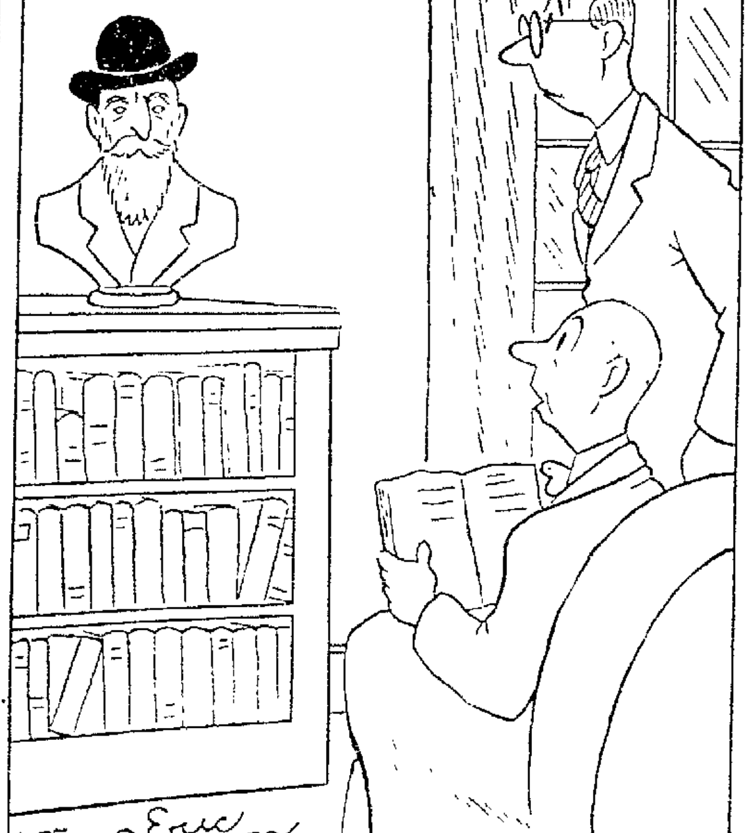
JUVENILE COURT HEARS 3 CASES

Frank Brokaw, 47, Mansfield, R. D. 2, was fined $25 and costs in juvenile court yesterday when he was found guilty of contributing to the neglect of his 15-year-old son. The fine was suspended on his promise to keep the youth in school.

A 14-year-old Shelby boy, charged with delinquency by failing to report to school was given a suspended sentence in the Boys' Industrial school. He was ordered by the court to attend school the remainder of the year, and to be at his home each evening by 9 p. m.

Junior F. Spayde, 16, of Crestline, lost his right to drive for six months when he was found guilty of speeding. He received permission of the court to drive only on business.

Laff-a-Day



"I dunno—it came with the bust!"

Up and Down The Street

ALWAYS SOMETHING—

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn, literally up to his neck in work that accumulated while he was in Washington to sit in on the airlines hearings, found another task when he opened his morning mail today. The mail brought a request from James G. Truman of Berkeley, Calif., for a list of nine and 18-hole golf courses in Ohio that are open to the public. The Californian said he planned to use the list in a book he is writing on sporting areas of the United States, but the mayor said he was too busy to answer that one today.

* * *

NO EXCUSE NOW—

Mansfielders won't have any excuse now for littering the streets with paper and other refuse. New collection boxes, marked "Waste Paper," had been set up today at advantageous points downtown by John Gottfried who was authorized by city council to establish the collection service. The boxes are painted brown with white lettering. They contain advertising which helps pay for the service.

NEEDED: AN ARTIST—

The Mansfield Public library is looking for an artist, who will donate his or her services to the completion of the "treasure chest" which will carry 30 books to the children of foreign land. Miss Eva Leonard, children's librarian in charge of collecting the books for the chest, said today the wooden box has been completed by the Senior high vocational classes, but the chest needs a coat of paint and some decorations. The chest must be decorated before it is sent to the national office in New York for distribution.

LEAVING SOONER—

Patients at General hospital are getting out sooner now, Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, hospital superintendent, told members of the Mansfield Hospital association last night. He backed up his claim with some interesting statistics. Thirty years ago, he said, when he began his hospital career, patients were staying in hospitals an average of 21 or 25 days. Today, patients are able to leave in about eight days. He also pointed out that 30 years ago, although beds in the ward cost only $1.50 per day, a patient's bill would be almost as much for a 25 day stay as today when ward accommodations cost $5 per day.

W. P. Mosey Dies at 74

William Penfield Mosey, 74, retired foreman of the Empire Steel corporation, died at his home, 99 West Second street, today at 8:45 a. m., following a week's illness.

Born in Bucyrus Jan. 6, 1872, Mr. Mosey had been a Mansfield resident most of his life. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church and Venus Lodge, No. 152, F. and A. M.

Surviving are two sons, William W. and Allen H., and two daughters, Mrs. Marjorie King and Miss Isabelle Mosey, all of Mansfield; and six grandchildren.

Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home where services will be conducted Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., by Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be the Mansfield cemetery.

Atom Power Plant Nearing Reality

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—A General Electric engineer said today that the first atomic power plant will be generating electricity at Oak Ridge, Tenn., by the end of next year.

C. P. Cabell, engaged in atomic energy projects at the Hanford engineer works, said preliminary work on such a plant is being conducted by G-E and the Monsanto Chemical company at Oak Ridge. Their investigations are being made under government contract. Cabell told the San Francisco engineering council last night that atomic power plants actually can be more economical than conventional types.

Watson Burned As Fuel Explodes

Tod A. Watson, proprietor of the Watson Automatic Machinery company at 305 Park avenue west, suffered burns on his face when fuel near a stove ignited yesterday, firemen reported. There was no damage to the building, they said.

Firemen answered a false alarm at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company plant where a box that was accidentally bumped turned in an alarm about 3:30 p. m. yesterday.

$12,000 UNIT WILL BE READY IN TWO WEEKS

Loughridge Re-Elected As Head of Board; Biggest Year Reported.

A new $12,000 X-ray unit is expected to be installed at General hospital sometime within the next two weeks, Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent, told members of the Mansfield Hospital association at their annual meeting last night.

The unit has already arrived and hospital officials are waiting for Cleveland technicians to install it in the X-ray room. It will replace the old unit, which will be moved into the hospital addition expected to be built soon, Dr. Fonkalsrud told members.

E. W. Loughridge was re-elected president of the hospital board; Mrs. Ephraim Brown was re-elected secretary; and H. E. Arlin was elected vice president. C. W. Fox was retained as treasurer.

The hospital board will have two new members, Austin C. Rhoads and the new city service-safety director who will succeed William W. Enlow, resigned. Others who will serve on the board are Mrs. Ephraim Brown, Glen Speelman, C. W. Fox, Mrs. George Draffan, Mrs. Lois Anson, Atty. C. H. Huston, Matthew Mayer, E. W. Loughridge, H. W. Arlin, L. A. Ott, Fred Burgener, E. B. Swigart and M. Dale Ward.

New Advisory Member.

Richard Stander, vice president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce is the only new member on the advisory group. Others include: Mrs. Rex Averill, Fred Hout, Mrs. J. C. Gorman, A. C. Hand, Oliver Henkel, Stanleigh Vinson, Scott Coffin, R. B. Gardner, Mrs. Robart Scattergood, Sidney Smith, Harry Dailey, W. J. Spreng, W. A. Springer, and G. W. Stephens.

Last year was the biggest year in the history of the hospital, Dr. Fonkalsrud said in his annual report.

A total of 7,929 patients were treated at the hospital last year, including 1,637 accident cases.

Records showed 1,493 deliveries, but Dr. Fonkalsrud explained that approximately 1,500 babies were born at the hospital in 1946 because twins are listed on the records as one delivery.

Record Set.

Although December, because of the holidays, is usually one of the lightest months of the year, last December's average of 195 patients per day set a record, and was 30 more than the average during December, 1945.

Receipts during the year amounted to $1,162,577 and expenses were $1,082,298. Charge off accounts during the year amounted to $5,583.

In a move to increase the number of nurses, Dr. Fonkalsrud said that plans are under way for a canvass of this area to reach high school pupils who may want to join the nursing staff. There are only 18 senior nurses, 19 juniors, and 11 pre-clinical nurses, making a total of only 48 nurses, at the hospital now in a year which has been the heaviest in the institution's history.

"We should have at least 80 nurses," Dr. Fonkalsrud said.

MAN ROBS WHEN BEGGING FAILS

Police today were investigating a report of a $13 robbery that followed an attempt at panhandling on North Mulberry street at 8:45 p. m. last night.

J. J. Huston, 89 West Third street, told officers that he was approached by a man who asked him for some money while he was walking along the east side of North Mulberry street.

He said he refused the handout and started to walk on when the man grabbed him from behind, dragged him into the alley between 216 and 218 North Mulberry street, knocked him down and robbed him of his billfold containing the cash.

Engineers Plan 'Georgia' Meeting

The "Georgia" meeting of the North Central chapter of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers will be at 7 p. m. Thursday at the American Legion home, 126 Park Avenue West.

It's called the "Georgia" meeting, the announcement stated, because two sets of officers request the presence of all members—the present officers and the future officers, to be elected at this meeting. There will be movies and dinner, the best for $1.50.

Catlett Better; Leaves Hospital

Atty. John L. Catlett, Richland county representative to the Ohio general assembly, was able to leave General hospital yesterday and return to his home at 1023 Woodland road.

Catlett suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Dec. 30. His family said he is improving rapidly and should be able to return to his work in about two weeks.
